Security Council: 11 Yes, Four Silent

UN Adds Soft Ban on Oil Trade

African Drive Defeated

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The Security Council ordered selective, mandatory sanctions, including oil, against Rhodesia Friday night on the request of Britain.

The amended British resolution was approved by 11 to 0, with four abstentions. In the 15-country council, Abolitionists were Russia, France, Bulgaria and Mali.

PUSH FAILED

The three African countries on the council, Mali, Nigeria and Uganda, got oil added to the list of banned commodities, but they failed to push through amendments that would have toughened the resolution even more and specifically obligated the British to stop all oil shipments to Rhodesia.

Mali, therefore, abstained in protest, but Nigeria and Uganda went along with the limited sanctions program.

MANY PRODUCTS

The embargo against the white-minority regime headed by Ian Smith covers Rhodesian oil imports and exports of asbestos, iron ore, chrome, pig iron, sugar, tobacco, copper, meat, meat products, hides, skins and leather. The exports were chosen by the British government in consultation with the Commonwealth sanctions committee in London.

The council approved an African amendment and ordered

Dog Pack Savages Two Girls

CHURCHILL, Man. (CP)—Friday morning's stroll to school was turned into a trip of terror for two Grade 1 girls who were attacked by a pack of stray and sled dogs.

Agnes Spence was later flown to Winnipeg hospital with undetermined injuries but Marlene Dick wasn't seriously hurt. A passerby raced home for his rifle and shot two of the dogs.

Their Hero Wore Hip-Waders

carried to canoe, which transported family to waiting rescue trucks. Cowichan River continued to pose threat to families in Mission Road area. (Story on Page 5.)

Slump Fear Scorned By Business Heads

By JACK FRY
Legislative Reporter

The fear of a recession was cast off Friday by 300 British Columbia businessmen who continued prosperity ahead in 1967. The men who have their fingers on the pulse of the economy predicted in a 10-page business outlook another year of continuing prosperity and good times. The optimistic outlook of the business leaders runs counter to evidence of an economic slowdown in the province.

COULD INHIBIT

Their report, however, warns that continued escalation of costs through higher wages and more expensive materials "could seriously inhibit the continued growth of the economy."

B.C.'s leading businessmen also predict that tight money conditions and accompanying high interest rates which are restricting expansion on all fronts will continue through 1967 and into 1968.

VIEWS OF 300

The views of nearly 300 executives in industry, trade, utilities and service were canvassed and compiled by Jack Meredith, assistant director, and Ron Knight, research supervisor, of the B.C. Bureau of Economics and Statistics.

Their findings, published in a report which is available free of charge from the department of industrial development, trade

Time Bomb Ticks in China

TOKYO (AP)—Red Flag says opponents in China of Communist Party Chairman Mao Tse-tung and Lin Biao are "time bombs planted within our party" that might explode. It suggests these foes might try to seize power.

For the first time, the Journal of the Chinese party says supporters of this faction "have relative superiority" in the ideological and cultural field.

The targets of the attack appear to be, among others,

President Liu Shao-chi, once Mao's heir-apparent, and Teng Hsiao-ping, party general secretary. Party propaganda chief Tao Chu, in a speech Tuesday, accused both men of following a "bourgeois reactionary line."

It appears from Red Flag's editorial that Liu and Teng are backed by many intellectuals, writers, artists, professors and students in the fight against the rigid doctrines of Mao and Defence Minister Lin, now heir-apparent to Mao's mantle.

In the editorial broadcast by Radio Peking, Red Flag appeals to the Chinese people to rise against the Liu-Teng faction.

The reference to time bombs and the apparent fear that the foes of Mao and Lin might try to seize power comes after Red Flag says the main targets of the current purge "are the handful of people within the party who are in authority and are taking the capitalist road."

The Hanoi Raid-Non-Raid: Information Muddle

Credibility Gap Yawns Wider

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The storm over alleged U.S. bombing of Hanoi left new scars Friday on the U.S. government's credibility and a residue of bitterness between the state and defence departments.

For two days the state department held the position of public spokesman for the U.S. government. It reflected massive confusion over the geography of the North Vietnamese capital and answered questions about whether the city had been bombed with policy statements that it was not supposed to be bombed. (See Pages 8 and 35)

Inside the government it was recognized that the state department was trying to fend off Communist charges, non-

Communist criticism and public demands for information until the military leaders in Saigon could figure out from pilot reports and photographs what had actually happened. When results of the Saigon investigation had reached the point of disclosure Thursday night, the state department was suddenly bypassed. Even when word began to be available elsewhere in Washington that officials claimed evidence that the city of Hanoi, as narrowly defined, had not been hit, state

Clemency Word Monday

OTTAWA (CP)—Solicitor-General Pennell said Friday he hopes to be able to announce Monday whether the government will grant pre-Christmas clemency to a group of British Columbia labor leaders in jail for defying a court injunction.

PAY OFFER ERASES AIR STRIKE THREAT

OTTAWA (CP)—A threatened strike of air traffic controllers next Tuesday was called off late Friday after negotiators accepted a government wage offer.

Revenue Minister Benson said the settlement involves a wage increase of "about 13 per cent."

Pension Snoops Certain

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition leader Diefenbaker said Friday night federal "mass snoopers" will declare open season on any pensioner who applies for a proposed $30 supplement.

The statement came during an attack on a government bill that provides for a check on the income of those who apply for a guaranteed income supplement.

Colin Cameron (NDP—Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands) said the bill will allow bureaucrats to look into the savings, home ownership and financial status of relatives of those who apply for the supplement.

'NO LIMIT'

"There is no limit to the snooping," Opposition parties promised an all-out attack on this feature of the legislation, which will come up again for clause-by-clause study Monday.

Transport Minister Pickersgill called the Diefenbaker remarks "a gross distortion." The opposition was shedding crocodile

'Think It Over'

CBC Asks To Copy Bug Tapes

VANCOUVER (CP)—Commissioner R. A. Sargent said Friday the CBC has asked to tape controversial tapes at an inquiry investigating electronic bugging of a union convention.

Mr. Sargent mentioned the request before adjourning the commission until Jan. 3.

The commissioner said he was inclined to favor the idea, but it brought an uproar of protest from counsel. He repeated that he favored the plan and asked them to think it over during the Christmas-New Year's recess.

He said the CBC had asked to bring its own tape recordings into the hearings when the six tapes of bugged conversations are played when the hearing resumes. Earlier, Mr. Sargent said the tapes would be heard and

RCMP witnesses called when the commission resumed. The tapes are from electronic listening devices placed at the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada convention in a downtown hotel.

The commissioner said he wanted to devote a full day to the tapes, which will take about five hours to hear.

Cpl. Harry Reed and Constable E. P. Ouellette of the RCMP security and intelligence branch will be the first witnesses when hearings resume, Mr. Sargent said.

The men were implicated in the bugging by Bud Graham, a private detective who testified he was hired to listen in on the pulp union meeting. Graham told the commission earlier he thought he was doing the job as a matter of national security.

Rights for Man Ratified at Last

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—The General Assembly, in an action hailed by delegates as historic, unanimously adopted Friday two covenants aimed at extending basic human rights to all mankind.

The covenants had been in preparation for 20 years. One deals with civil and political rights and the other with economic, social and cultural rights.

They will come into force

when they have been ratified by 35 nations and will then give binding, legal recognition to a vast array of individual rights that previously had been set forth only in vague and general terms.

Secretary-General U Thant, addressing the assembly after adoption of the covenants, said: "It is my sincere belief that our decision today will bring us nearer to the kind of world which our organization is committed to build."

Fund Leaps $1,000

Fantastic Describes Friday

FANTASTIC!

That's the only way to describe the record-breaking day the 500 Fund had Friday.

Three important barriers were not only overcome, but soundly beaten:

- The fund passed the $10,000 mark — easily.
- The fund had its first $1,000 day (and more) of this year's campaign.
- Lagging well behind last year's same-day totals, the fund learn over what would be a simple verification of the income tax status of applicants.

Health Minister MacEachen added that this would be a simple, private method of checking the income of applicants and was "a realistic and sensible authority to seek."

Government House Leader McInnis said the pension supplement bill will come up again Monday. Finance Minister Sharp's mini-budget also will be brought down Monday, at 8 p.m.

During debate on the pension supplement bill, Mr. MacEachen was called Scrooge and described as being mean, miserable, petty-minded and disingenuous.

He took it all in his stride as a series of opposition attempts to amend the bill were either voted down or ruled out of order.

NDP MOVE
Coming up Monday will be an NDP move to strike the means test provision out of the bill. Mr. Diefenbaker said the Conservatives will support this.

The opposition presented a united front in four standing votes taken Friday, although only about half the 265 seats in the House were filled.

The votes, all defeated, went this way:

● 66 to 61 on an NDP amendment to strike a phrase that restricts payment of the supplement to those born before Jan. 1, 1911. This id effect would make permanent what the government considers to be a transitional plan closing the gap until the Canada Pension Plan comes into effect.

● 55 to 40 on NDP amendment to remove a restriction that makes those who live outside Canada for more than six months a year ineligible.

● 60 to 42 on a Conservative attempt to allow single pensioners to earn $360 yearly and married $720 yearly without loss of the supplement.

● 48 to 31 against an NDP attempt to ensure that other welfare payments wouldn't be reduced by the supplement.

Mr. MacEachen said the present $75 monthly federal pension and provincial supplements to it won't be considered as income.

The government bill lops $1 off the supplement for every $2 earned independently.

The object of the bill is to guarantee a minimum income of $105 monthly to pensioners.

Dr. P. B. Ryndard (PC-Simcoe East) said pensioners should be able to earn some money independently from chores such as baby-sitting or gardening without losing the supplement.

This was the reason for the Conservative amendment, which was defeated.

What Slump?

and commerce, was released Friday by Trade and Commerce Minister Ralph Lofmark.

Businessmen expressed concern about the effects of any changes in the Vietnam war upon the short-term business outlook.

The report warned: "Escalation could further overstrain segments of the North American economy and a sudden cessation of hostilities could cause temporary dislocations."

The general attitude of the report is that business, which has seen a substantial reduction of "profits through increased costs, intends to weather the storm of tight money and high interest rates in hopes that conditions will be more favorable for expansion at a later date."

"The majority of the larger commercial and industrial firms had access to needed capital funds but in many instances deferred or reduced expenditures because of the high costs of such capital," the report stated.

MORE MODERATE
The rate of expansion during 1965, compared favorably with the impressive gains of a year earlier, but a more moderate rate of growth is expected during 1967.

"Sales and revenue increases were recorded in 1966 by 74 per cent of the firms surveyed . . . Fifty per cent of the firms are budgeting for increases next year but on a more modest scale."

The survey showed that only 28 per cent of the business firms expect a rise in profits next year, only 21 per cent anticipate increased employment and only 35 per cent expect to make capital and repair expenditures.

Forty-six per cent of the firms canvassed predict the prices of goods will continue to rise during the year.

The housewife will be disheartened to learn, however, that things are really rolling along in the foods and beverages industry.

Of 29 firms participating in the survey, only one reported a drop in sales and only three indicated decreased profits from a year ago.

Many of the increases were substantial, "some in excess of 10 per cent," and "the outlook as a whole in 1967 appears to be excellent, with only 10 per cent of the firms forecasting decreased sales."

New Policies

WELL-INFORMED observers of the West German political scene are wholly convinced that Chancellor Kiesinger is determined to direct Bonn's future foreign policy along three specific lines: the retention and possible extension of its present strong position in NATO; the re-activation of its 1963 "friendship" treaty with France and the establishment of some kind of rapport with the Soviet Union.

Though the first objective is but a projection of the aspirations of his predecessors in office the latter two mark a wide divergence in politics as practiced by the two earlier Bundestags.

The Franco-German Treaty of 1963 is a case in point. Though it was drawn up and signed by former Chancellor Adenauer and General de Gaulle, it was allowed to lapse to the point of non-existence under the Erhard regime. And to some degree this cooling off between the two giants of Europe was looked upon with some favor, particularly by the United States after France's departure from NATO.

Chancellor Kiesinger, it appears, is now prepared to risk the displeasure of the United States by seeking to reopen close and friendly ties with Paris once again.

Even more surprising is his apparent desire to work out some kind of understanding with the U.S.S.R. Certainly such a move would meet the approval of France—who sees herself as the grand mediator between the West and the East—but of necessity it would also involve Bonn's future relationship with East Germany.

Such a relationship would undoubtedly call for a rejection on the part of Bonn of any future demands for the reunification of Germany. And on this issue Chancellor Kiesinger will meet far greater opposition within his own country and his own coalition government than will ever be provided by his NATO allies.

Until now no West German politician has publicly admitted that Germany is divided into two distinct countries and that short of war they cannot be again joined together—though privately many accept this as a basic fact of life.

Many believe but will not say that the two Germanys today have little in common other than that they happen to speak the same language.

But whether Chancellor Kiesinger is strong enough to persuade his government and the West German people to accept this thought as part of a national policy is another matter.

Genius of Cheer

FROM SMALL ACORNS grow great oaks, and from a cartoon character named Mickey Mouse there grew the great film empire that made the name of Walt Disney a household word across the world.

And, the chief attribute of this famed entrepreneur whose death has robbed the entertainment realm of its most glowing figure, this gifted man preferred to deal in happiness, in films that bespoke innocent pleasure instead of dredging the gutters of depravity.

It should be a lesson to producers who are fascinated with the seamy sides of life that Disney productions were equally successful at the box office, the goal of all those who cater to the entertainment of others.

To have a film labelled a "Disney" production was enough to fill every theatre seat, and an assurance that healthy and interesting fare was being provided. Whether the subject was animated cartoon, fairy tale creations, nature studies, or films of adventure and musical interest, the underlying theme was the same—clean entertainment that would bring cheer and good feeling to the viewers.

It was not for nothing that countless awards came his way in recognition of his achievements, or that a deep feeling of loss has been occasioned by his death. There was a sanity about his outlook that redeemed much of the sordidness that has cluttered both the large and the small screens.

Walt Disney made the world in which he labored a better place to live in, and he will linger on as a legendary figure. Disneyland itself, the amusement park he created and filled with fantasy and genius, will remain as the symbol of a showman of greatness for whom joy and goodwill was the mainspring of his being.

Poor Example

NOTICE HAS BEEN served on MLAs who will take their seats at next month's session of the legislature that in effect says to them: "Mind your manners."

The Courtenay school board has sanctioned a visit to the legislature by 30 of its high school students but only, the board has told Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell, if MLAs promise to conduct themselves "in a suitable manner."

A visit last year was disillusioning. So much so the school superintendent is quoted as saying he found it—the behavior of MLAs—"disturbing."

One doubts a promise can be extracted from members of the legislature, or even that without it there will be an improvement in the deportment of members during debate—so constant is the tumult of rudeness that invariably marks each session—but MLAs would do well to take the matter to heart.

It is a poor example to young people who go to James Bay to see and learn how public business is carried on to find that so often personal insult, invective and plain bad manners are a hallmark of legislative debate. Adults also are equally repelled at times by the incivility that is permitted.

Legislative sessions are rightly marked by spirited discussion of pro and con, and it is too much to expect that feelings on occasion will run slightly riot. The political scene is not exactly the most polite on earth.

But an attempt should be made to prevent ill manners getting out of hand, especially when students are present ostensibly to learn how their seniors do things.

There is ample warrant for an improvement, and MLAs should not just shrug this Courtenay protest off. The rebuke implied should sink home, to some extent at least.

"The old folks are at home watching Alice in Wonderland."

Danger Long Obvious

A Late Attack on Famine

By CYRIL DUNN
from New Delhi

WE are now surrounded by the clamor of "crash programs" and of last-minute relief expeditions to save the people in the North Indian state of Bihar from the famine which could overwhelm them next March. Inevitably, from time to time some prominent member of Mrs. Indira Gandhi's Congress Party—which has ruled India for almost 20 years with virtually absolute power—gets up to say with pride that operations in Bihar are being put on "a war footing."

To some Indians it seems reasonable in such circumstances to ask why what is being done now with such frantic zeal was not done calmly and with greater foresight years ago. It is indeed legitimate to wonder why the lean peasantry of Bihar, already weakened by malnutrition, should today be required to work so hard and so desperately on make-shift barricades against calamity instead of finding themselves secure behind permanent and reliable defences.

I have just come back from a tour through South Bihar, the most dangerously threatened region of the state. And of course the gaping breach in its defensive system was obvious. There is not enough man-made irrigation of a kind capable of countering any widespread failure of the annual rains, a well-known and frequently recurring disaster in this part of the world. It is not rare to meet in South Bihar residents who are furious about this. One of them was incensed because, as he said, Bihar has India's mightiest river—the Ganges—and more coal than other Indian state. Yet with these unique sources of water and power a region which at this time of year should be waist-deep in rice crops ripening into harvest has nothing to show but fields as hard, cracked and bare as vacant lots and may in two months or so leave a multitude of its people with no water to drink.

You see the point best at Patna, the state capital. Along the city's waterfront the Ganges flows as vast and placid as a calm sea. The river is at this stage relatively narrow—a mere three miles wide—and admittedly this year its yellow sandbars are bigger than usual. But it is still an enormous flow, making ludicrous the notion that Bihar should be short of water. Nobody for a moment suggested to me that the Ganges is insufficiently exploited because it is India's most sacred river. However much its mundane functions may be neglected, it serves many vital sacred purposes. It is the chief resort of Hindus in need of a holy bath. And a glass of it provides the only sustenance a holy man will take when he commits himself to fast in protest against some really grave shortcoming of the Congress government, such as its failure to save from slaughter India's dried-up and useless cows.

Yet it did not appear to me that Bihar's present condition had much to do with religious impediments, though a good deal could certainly be put down to the predominantly Hindu nature of society in the state. A more obvious cause of its troubles is the confused and moribund nature of its democracy.

A young government official, no doubt made reckless by his current burdens, roundly condemned to me the lack of proper irrigation in areas like South Bihar as the worst failure of the Congress and derided what he called the "docility" of the people. It had not in fact seemed to me that the Biharis were docile. Whenever we had stopped the car and talked to groups of peasants at the roadside they had been both voluble and angry, if perhaps excessively inclined towards self-pity and dependence. What did begin to appear was that the poorer people had no awareness of their real needs and no sense whatever of their power. Right now South Bihar is pressing ahead with minor irrigation works, notably wells. But it has long been possible for a farmer to get a thousand rupees from the government towards the cost of a deep well big enough to provide water for the small amount of land he normally works. Yet I was assured that in some of the areas now hard hit there are no such wells in the local government records that exist in fact. For in times of relative plenty a farmer would rather marry off his daughters than dig himself a well. So he draws the government's bounty, gives the local official 200 rupees of it to enter a well in the archives and uses the rest as his daughter's obligatory dowry.

If generations of harsh and disappointing experience had not made the people of Bihar indifferent about the future and purely improvident, they could, on the face of things, quite easily assert their power. The Bihar Congress has a huge majority in the State Assembly and, because of their endless intestine disputes, they have never exercised properly. But those who might combine in entirely lawful revolt against the Congress in Bihar belong mainly to the Backward Classes, who stand only a little above the Untouchables and the Aborigines in the pecking order of Hindu society. They have no inherent sense of their own rights. And in ways that escape notice because they make little

For Jamaica Capital

Ambitious Face-Lifting

By ROBERT LAWRENCE
from Kingston

THE government of Jamaica is relying more and more heavily on the tourist dollar to keep its people in the style to which they would like to become accustomed.

Accordingly, Jamaica values its image as a "paradise island" of the kind to which visitors from North America like to flock, traditionally in their winter, but also increasingly in the summer and between seasons.

The Caribbean island's north coast is replete with sandy beaches, lapping blue sea, waving palms and comfortable hotels oriented toward the visitor from abroad. But Kingston, the capital, which would like to have a slice of the tourist pie and is, indeed, visited by many tourist ships throughout the year, is dingy and unattractive. A relic of utilitarian colonial days when the city was for business and the country for living.

Not that Kingston, a sprawling city facing on one of the world's greatest natural harbors and creeping up into the surrounding hills 10 or more miles away, does not have its stately mansions and gracious suburbs. It does, and glorious gardens and breathtaking views into the bargain. But these are farther out and the true city, comprising the old docks, warehouses, business premises and shops, does the island little credit, being neither impressive nor picturesque.

All this is to be changed, however, if dynamic and ambitious Minister of Development

Impact on the government of the state, they are as apt to be hostile towards each other as the comes to whom tradition has given the mastery. And yet, who knows, perhaps early next year we may see the first glimmer of a change. For February in Bihar will see India's fourth national election coincide with the climax of afflictions for which, if they are not assuaged, the Bihar Congress cannot possibly disown all blame.

The first legislative assembly of Lower Canada met at Quebec 174 years ago today—in 1792—when there were 130,000 settlers in the province and only 20,000 in Upper Canada, which was ruled from Newark (now Niagara) by Lieutenant-Governor Simcoe and a small legislature.

1903 — The Wright brothers' first flight took place at Kitty Hawk, N.C.

First World War: Fifty years ago today — in 1916 — Sir William Maxwell Aitken was created Lord Beaverbrook; the Greek government ordered the arrest of rebel premier Eleutherios Venizelos for high treason; the shattered Roman army dug in behind the Sereth River.

Second World War: Twenty-five years ago today — in 1941 — Rear-Admiral C. W. Nimitz replaced Admiral H. E. Kimball as commander of the U.S. Pacific fleet; Japanese troops invaded the Sarawak oilfields of Borneo; U.S. bombers destroyed 26 Japanese aircraft on the ground in the Philippines beachhead.

There would be a gradual nuclear and conventional reduction of forces on both sides.

But there is no mistaking the rising interest in Gaudist ideas in Poland — and the corresponding disquiet in British "Atlantic" policies which seem to cling to American coal-tails both in Europe and Asia. This comes out most strongly in Polish reactions to President Johnson's big speech of October 7, in which he offered better trading conditions for Eastern Europe and suggested that the Warsaw Pact and NATO should provide "a framework in which East and West can act together to assure the security of all."

The Poles, strongly interested, have mixed feelings. On the credit side, they appreciate the handsome economic concessions to Poland, and the remark that "in a restored Europe, Germany can and will be reunited" — because it admits that German reunification must wait for the long process of a European settlement to be completed. On the other hand, the Warsaw Pact states are committed by their Bucharest declaration this summer to a "Gaudist" path, to a continental settlement to be prepared by a European security conference in which the United States would not take part and in which NATO would not speak for Western Europe.

In Warsaw, they like de Gaulle's "course" in saying that Europe has its own interests, and feel that the smaller West European states agree with him. But they are none too happy about the exclusion of the United States from a security conference — which, in the Western view, would make it quite pointless.

Germany and China are two problems which involve the Poles with their Eastern allies. They regard the new grand coalition at Bonn with withering scepticism and still ask why they should make any move for better relations until Bonn recognizes their western border, the Oder-Neisse line.

But it is a fact that not all their neighbors are so stiff. At the recent Moscow meeting of Communist leaders, there was a suggestion that no Warsaw Pact member should accept diplomatic relations with West Germany until Bonn recognised the Oder-Neisse line and the East German government, which Poland would certainly have supported, but "no decision was taken." It looks as if the line founded on Romanian resistance.

On China, the Poles expect some form of international Communist conference within six or seven months. Although it is Romania and Yugoslavia which have been most openly critical of this scheme, which they feel could lead to a total breach with China and to a consolidation of Soviet ascendancy in the bloc, the Poles are clearly uneasy too.

Privately some Poles fear that Peking's course may lead to unknown disasters, perhaps even to ultimate war with the Soviet Union.

Missiles Or Reform

By MARQUIS CHILDS

OF all the characters in the east that will determine whether the United States is to spend $30 billion to $40 billion on an anti-ballistic missile system, none is more flamboyant — or unpredictable — than Rep. L. Mendel Rivers. The South Carolinian with the dramatic mane of silver hair and a manner to go with it is chairman of the House Armed Services Committee.

He might have come out of one of William Faulkner's novels of the Snopeses, the poor boy rising to power and position in the remnants of the aristocratic South. Seniority gave him his chairmanship and he exercises his power with the imperial touch. As for Secretary of Defence Robert S. McNamara, when he comes to Capitol Hill to testify, the chairman looks at him frowningly as an emissary from a hostile power.

Rivers is planning the kind of mission to Puerto Rico that he led last January. He orders an air force plane — using all force planes to commute to Charleston and wherever the whim directs him he considers his prerogative — that will take a number of committee members to Ramey Air Force base near San Juan. There in early January they will plot the strategy to give McNamara his come-uppance.

The Republicans with their victory of 47 seats in the House will carry far more weight in the committee than they did in the 89th Congress. If they decide to make the "anti-ballistic missile gap" a political issue it would be surprising not to find Chairman Rivers giving them their due and perhaps open support. He led the committee last year in adding nearly $1 billion to the defence appropriation that McNamara insisted the defence department did not need or want.

Committee members, most of them on the conservative side, are singularly susceptible to the pressures of big contractors who are part of what President Eisenhower called in his farewell address the military-industrial complex. In his zeal to keep the shipyards of his native state in operation Rivers has had a running battle with McNamara for approval of two nuclear-powered frigates. The frigates are still an angry gleam in Rivers' eye.

Understandably in view of the enormous complexity of the decision on the anti-ballistic missile, members of the committee with the best will in the world are likely to be swayed by emotions. The whole matter is shrouded in secrecy. The National Intelligence Estimate, revealing what the Soviets have done to place anti-ballistic missiles, is a top-secret document for the eyes of a half-dozen policymakers.

The story, so far as is shown, is as follows. About five and a half years ago the Russians began to build the sites for anti-ballistic missiles around their principal cities. After somewhat more than a year the operation was suspended. The reason for the suspension is conjecture — the possibility that they were devising more sophisticated devices for destroying incoming missiles at a much greater height and at a distance of several hundred miles from the target. Then a year ago they began to build a more extensive system.

McNamara will say only that despite rumors that the Soviet system is potentially more effective than any official is ready to acknowledge he considers the National Intelligence Estimate valid. On this basis he reaffirms his 1964 statement that there is no break in the stalemate foreseeable into the '70s. If either of the two scenarios should try a first-strike knockout the result would be death for both.

At budget time in recent years the pressure in the Pentagon has built up for a go-ahead on the anti-ballistic missile — first it was the Nike Zeus, later the Nike X. McNamara has agreed to add a half-billion dollars a year for advanced research on a system its proponents believe to be more sophisticated than that of the Soviets. This adds up to an investment of several billions, stepping short of actual production. One of the extras the Rivers committee threw into the last budget was $167,900,000 for Nike above and beyond McNamara's request.

It has been said on apparently good authority that the United States has undertaken at the highest level to assure the Soviets on the score of the anti-ballistic missile. If you don't build it, we won't. That has been the tenor of these assurances.

But in the opinion of the most-reasoned Kremlinologists this has not prevailed against a deep and growing undercurrent of fear. Marshall D. Shulman of Harvard's Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy and an associate of the Russian Research Centre there, wrote recently in the Washington Post after a stay in the Soviet Union that almost everyone he talked to believed the Johnson administration was on a course of conquest.

Pinch of Silence Makes Pound of Chatter

By MARIE CAIRORETTA

LAKE COWICHAN — "I would rather teach East Indian children than Canadian children," said Grade 6 teacher Allan Crane.

Mr. Crane said East Indian students "are more receptive to education than Canadians."

The main problem this area's heavy concentration of East Indians faces is the language barrier.

Teacher Julie Brown said children are late learning English. "They are put in classes which have too fast a pace for them."

But this is often overcome by the extraordinary persistence of students themselves.

Under the direction of Jeevan Mangat, remedial classes for these students have been incorporated into the school program.

When the program opened there were 32 students, and by the end of the first term 72 were taking the course.

"Many of the students who couldn't speak any English are now little chatterboxes," said Mr. Mangat. He is especially suited to tackle the language problem since he speaks five Indian dialects.

Of India's 300 languages, 14 are officially recognized, with their own alphabets and numerical systems.

The Punjabi language is 6,000 years old. "It is one of the oldest languages in India," Mr. Mangat said.

Mr. Mangat is now writing a book to help East Indians master the English tongue.

The book is written in English, but pronunciation of English is in Punjabi. Mr. Mangat is a late-comer (quite literally) to Lake Cowichan.

He was scheduled to arrive in September, to start the school term. "But I got carried away with Cairo, Athens, Rome and Paris, and didn't arrive until November."

Coming to Canada is disrupting for an East Indian family. Students are often put back more than one grade because of the inability to communicate, even though their academic standard is often higher than Canadian youngsters.

"Sometimes we can't understand what the teacher is saying," explained Jagminder Singh Mangat, 17.

The boy, who wants to become an engineer, said, "Usually when we tell the teacher we do not understand, she explains again, slowly."

Jagminder Singh has university entrance qualification, but is still diligently finding out more about spoken English.

Another student, Amritpal Kaur, hopes to become a nurse after graduation. In the meantime ... she too is working on her English.

Mr. Mangat came to Canada for post graduate studies. Besides teaching high school he was one of the producers of Kenya Broadcasting Corporation.

"Teaching is only a hobby," he said. "I like teaching but it is not my first love."

"I love art, photography and meeting people."

He hopes to go back to Paris working as a member of UNESCO.

Families Move Out, Fish Die in Fields

DUNCAN — Norman Jimmy put his family into a canoe and moved out, Friday.

The group was part of 30 persons who waited through Thursday night, water lapping at doorsteps, ready to evacuate.

The Jimmy family was one of two that moved in the face of flooding of the Cowichan River.

MISSION ROAD
The Jimmys, who live in the Mission Road area of Cowichan Indian reserve, paddled to a waiting evacuation truck, which took them to safety.

Indian band officials hope there will be no rain today, and flooding will recede.

DAM BURST
The families were threatened when a dam burst.

The Jimmy family was the second to leave. Before morning, Chris Alphonse had helped his family get to safety.

"They didn't figure it was going to get this bad," said public works committee chairman Abraham Joe.

FORCE OF HABIT
He was asked why the families waited so long.

"They just get used to it," he said. "They don't get scared anymore."

Mr. Joe has said for some time the dam would go, because of its construction. It was built by bulldozers pushing gravel into a dike.

EMERGENCY
Chief Dennis Alphonse and his councilors have been listening to the weather reports with concern.

"I'm considering declaring a state of emergency," the chief said. This would facilitate the movement of reluctant families.

LAND GOES UNDER
Able Joe, chairman of the flood control committee, said the dam which has burst "saved" residents last year.

Waters from the raging Cowichan and Koksilah Rivers flooded 4,000 acres of agricultural land.

"It's all water right down to Cowichan Bay," said Mr. Joe. "My biggest squabble is with the fisheries department."

FISH FIRST
Mr. Joe has worked on diking the Cowichan River and feels it is the fisheries department's fault the river is now flooding into Indian territory.

He said he advised the dike be built up in two different spots along the Cowichan River but others ordered it to be opened up to allow the fish to spawn.

INSTANT CHUM
The spots are about a mile and half from the Silver Bridge.

Anyone with hip waders can walk out into the fields and catch chum with their bare hands. But that is not all the problem.

The Indian Affairs Department has spent thousands of dollars in the last two years to build up the dike but much of it has floated down the river in the last few days.

"The high tide we got and the rain was not our fault," Mr. Joe said. "You can't blame anybody."

"Someone was telling me it was all those satellites up in the sky that got the moon mad and it gushed down the rain," he laughed.

In the city of Duncan water on Beverly Street has gone down about three inches.

Christmas Concert

Future Headliners Enliven Present

By BERT BINNY

A formidable array of incipient song-and-dance artists, varying in age from 2½ to 23, were on stage last night at St. Martin's-in-the-Fields Hall.

The occasion was the Christmas Concert—staged by the students of the Marge Lindley Dance Studios and it was well attended indeed; all the tickets were sold in advance.

LIVELY SHOW
The show was lively, bright and colorful. True, that rugged individualism which is a hallmark of those in the youngest age bracket was fully in evidence when the 2½-year-olds were performing but their very individuality makes them all the more interesting.

Soloists such as Willow Planes, Marge Evans and Pat Monkhous gave polished performances but there were other featured performers in Demi Eve, Cindy Mawle, Toni Townsend, Louise Watson, Susan Chapman and Ann Chawin.

An outstanding number was the popular Jingle Bell Rock with the senior and teen class.

Both emcee and principal singer was teacher Marge Lindley who did the Hokey Pokey with the 2½-year-olds.

"They always tell me if I do anything wrong!" she observed. Christmas greeting came from Killarney and even from Outer Space.

TRIFLE LONG
If a couple of suggestions are permissible, some of the items were a trifle long and the stage management at the end of several numbers withdrew considerably from their well-earned success. Curtain first, then houselights, not vice-versa.

The show goes on again this evening, 8 p.m. at the Church Hall, St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, Obed Avenue.

Water Setup Boosted In Saanich

The entire Saanich water system will receive a boost when a new 1,000,000 gallon reservoir tank is completed on the top of Mount Tolmie.

The reservoir will be built on the east side of the summit and will be the first stage of a 3,000,000 gallon installation.

General growth throughout Saanich, and particularly in the Gordon Head area, has made the new tank necessary. Work is expected to start in January as part of the winter works scheme.

TENDERS SOON
Saanich engineer Neville Life said Friday tenders will be called next week. Total cost of the first tank is expected to be about $150,000 and, under the winter works program, Saanich will have about 10 per cent of the cost paid by the federal government.

Unless there is a sudden jump in the growth rate it is expected it will be many years before there is any addition to the tank.

TWO BIG TANKS
Expansion, when it does come, will be to the north. Saanich already has two 10,000 gallon tanks which will remain in use on the site of the proposed reservoir.

On the Oak Bay side of Mount Tolmie, there is another reservoir owned by the Greater Victoria water board.

UN Peacekeeping Vote Today

Russia Bucks Canada's Plan

By ALEXANDER FARRELL

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Russia warned Friday that if the General Assembly accepts Canada's peacekeeping proposal, a situation "latent with serious consequences" will be created.

The assembly is in vote, possibly today, on a Canadian draft resolution that would invite the UN member countries to designate armed forces and facilities for peacekeeping duties and would ask the Security Council to take practical steps to make peacekeeping operations more effective.

The basic Canadian purpose is to ensure that the UN always is ready for whatever peacekeeping operations it may decide to undertake.

The Canadian motion was passed by the assembly's special political committee Wednesday night 52 to 14, with 42 abstentions. For assembly passage, it will need approval by two-thirds of all countries voting.

The Soviet position is that the Canadian proposals are beyond the competence of the 12-member General Assembly. Russia and France argue that all decisions relating to peacekeeping are the prerogative of the 15-member Security Council.

The Soviet Union mission issued a statement Friday saying that Canada and its supporters are trying "to push through a decision running counter to the UN Charter, despite resolute protests of the Soviet Union and France, both permanent Security Council members which carry responsibility for the maintenance of international peace and security, as well as of a number of other member states of the organization."

"No one has the right to alter the provisions of the United Nations Charter concerning the use of armed forces to maintain peace."

"That is why the decision taken by the special political committee on Dec. 14 has no power and can have none. The Soviet Union will never recognize as legal any such decisions conflicting with the key provision of the charter of our organization."

WILL WIN
A Canadian spokesman told reporters he is mystified as to what provisions of the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms are being invoked. Neither in the committee debate nor in their statement Friday had they spelled out their objection.

Despite Soviet and French opposition, the feeling among diplomats Friday appeared to be that the Canadian motion will win the required two-thirds majority. If it does, its immediate effect will be to keep the whole question of peacekeeping on the assembly's agenda and to bring it before the Security Council, which Canada joins Jan. 1 for a two-year term.

The practical steps asks of the council are that it:

● Authorize a study of ways to improve preparations for peacekeeping operations, so that UN peace forces won't have to be improvised at the last minute, as in the past.

● Get a cost-estimate from the secretary-general whenever it sets up a peace force so that, contrary to what has happened in the past, member countries will know at the outset what the annual expenditure is likely to be.

● Consider making agreements with member countries for provisions of armed forces and facilities on request.

The council would be asked to report to the autumn, 1967, session of the assembly on what it has done in response to this motion.

NATO Ministers Plan Organizational Study

PARIS (CP)—North Atlantic ministers, completing their Paris deliberations Friday, agreed to launch an intensive study of how NATO should be shaped to meet future needs, especially in the light of warmer relations with Russia and Eastern Europe.

They placed so much emphasis on improving East-West relations that External Affairs Minister Paul Martin later observed that more importance had been placed on the delegate than at any other meeting he had attended.

He was particularly enthusiastic that the ministers agreed to keep progress on an East-West nuclear non-proliferation agreement under review and to seek agreement on satisfactory arms control measures which might contribute to the improvement of European security and the relaxation of tension.

Of specific Canadian interest, on a point which Martin has been pushing, was the ministers' formal expression of hope "to bring about conditions which could permit a gradual and balanced revision in force levels on both sides."

NATO GOAL
Martin had called for such a NATO goal in connection with Western and Soviet forces in West and East Germany. He has not been the first to do so but his emphasis was reflected in the NATO communiqué.

In the same way Canada won a point with the NATO agreement to launch an intensive study of the status of the alliance, a proposal made by Belgium. But the communiqué noted that Canada had taken the initiative two years ago.

A preliminary report of the tasks that face the alliance and ways of meeting these tasks is to be ready for the NATO spring meeting at Luxembourg, with a final report to be considered at the December meeting next year.

The ministers reached a number of other decisions, such as construction of a temporary prefabricated new council headquarters at Evere, near Brussels, and a permanent building at Hysel in Brussels. It didn't say when the existing council in Paris is to be transferred though there have been reports it may remain here until next October.

France, which brought on a NATO crisis by withdrawing from the integrated military command, participated and approved most of the political decisions, though Martin said he did not think France would agree to become a party to any East-West ban on the spread of nuclear weapons.

State Secretary Dean Rusk has indicated he has no reason to believe Russia would sign a non-proliferation pact, but Martin said he still is optimistic that a pact would be completed soon. The 17-country United Nations commission on this issue is to be reconvened in Geneva in February.

Clashes Yield Arms Cache

LISBON (AP) — A Portuguese army communiqué reports that great quantities of Chinese and Soviet-made armaments were captured during heavy fighting with nationalist rebels in Mozambique this month. The communiqué said the rebels suffered 200 casualties in the fighting. It said five government soldiers were killed.

Safety Rules The End For AMC?

DETROIT (UPI) — American Motors Corp., smallest of the major U.S. automobile makers said Friday that proposed government safety standards might drive it out of business.

American Motors president Roy Abernathy accused the government of discriminating against his firm in favor of the "Big Three" auto companies — General Motors, Ford and Chrysler.

"The procedure now specified is a crippling blow to the economic viability of this moderate-sized company and results in a de facto discrimination in favor of the economic giants of the industry," Abernathy said.

What's everybody in B.C. saying about this popular whisky?

Cheers. And you'll cheer too once you've tried Walker's Special Old. You'll like the mellow smoothness and the look of luxury. No wonder it's one of Canada's favourites.

Ottawa Ignoring 'Little People'

By RON COLLISTER
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Tory Leader Diefenbaker Friday accused the government of shocking disregard for thousands of "little people" ruined in the collapse of the Prudential Finance Corporation.

He demanded a royal commission into a financial catastrophe that, according to other sources, may end up as a $30,000,000 loss.

But, while Mr. Diefenbaker was slamming the federal government, Finance Minister Sharp was throwing the buck, three times, at the Ontario provincial government of Premier Roberts.

REAL ISSUE

"The real issue," said Mr. Sharp, "is that the laws of Ontario do not protect the investors and the policyholders of provincial companies as well as they should."

And: "I cannot accept the responsibility for the administration of Ontario."

And: "Mr. Gruber (accountant William Gruber who tipped off the federal government nearly a year ago) also made his information available to the Ontario government, which was primarily responsible in this matter."

Tory Leader Diefenbaker's fire is aimed at Mr. Sharp and the federal government.

NO COMMISSION

The federal government, at least, must have "an investigation into this kind of financial manipulation," he said.

Prime Minister Pearson has refused to order a royal commission.

The federal government, Mr. Diefenbaker said, was warned by Mr. Gruber in January, but disregarded the inevitable consequences.

TRUST UNDERMINED

The Prudential Finance collapse, he said, would result in a "profound undermining of public trust in financial institutions and harm the overwhelming number of honest, straightforward financial companies."

When a Canadian invests in an insurance company, with its federal charter, he does so because he has faith in the integrity of a corporation that has received a federal charter.

In the Commons Friday, the government was hammered by the opposition, sensing political dynamite in the bankruptcy of North American General Inurance, a Prudential Finance Corporation subsidiary, which is policed by Ottawa.

Mr. Sharp admitted that Mr. Gruber tipped off Ottawa in January about Prudential and its subsidiaries.

Mr. Sharp said Mr. Gruber had talks with Richard Humphry, superintendent of insurance, and the chief examiner of the department.

"Mr. Gruber said he had information to disclose which would be significant to anyone concerned about the affairs of Prudential Finance or its subsidiaries, but would make the disclosure only if he was offered legal protection."

"It was impossible," Mr. Sharp said, "for the superintendent of insurance to offer him legal protection under the law."

Mr. Sharp said Mr. Humphry was concerned when North American was bought by Prudential Finance, specifically about any changes in management practices as a result of the new ownership.

"At that time, he advised the North American General Insurance Company not to buy or invest in any notes of its parent company, and it never did."

Mr. Diefenbaker interrupted: "What about the average Canadian, was there any warning given to him?"

Investor Asks

'Who the Hell Can I Trust?'

TORONTO (CP) — Mildred Walker says it will take more than the loss of $17,000 in personal savings to stop her from investing.

"There isn't a crook in the world that's going to knock my spirits down," said Mrs. Walker, one of 8,500 small creditors who lost more than $17,000,000 when Prudential Finance Co. Ltd. went bankrupt this month. The loss of her life savings has left Mrs. Walker bitter about the failure of the government to protect her interests.

"If I can't trust the government, who the hell can I trust?" she asked Friday in an interview.

"I figured the government was my watchdog. So I was protected. Prudential Finance was supposed to be operating under government regulations. This whole thing makes a complete fool of the government."

Creditors of the bankrupt company met in Toronto Thursday and demanded the government take action to reimburse their losses.

Change of Venue Strategy?

TAMPA (CP)—Dr. Carl Coppolino, acquitted Thursday of a New Jersey murder charge, arrived Friday in Florida where he faces another murder allegation.

The doctor-author was accompanied by his wife, Mary, and a Monmouth, N.J., detective, John Gawler, who turned Coppolino over to authorities at Sarasota, Fla.

Sheriff Russ Boyer of Sarasota County told Coppolino he was free on bail until the Feb. 13 trial on a charge he fatally drugged his first wife, Carmela.

Coppolino and his wife left the airport in a car driven by Tampa lawyer James McEwen.

They wouldn't say where they were going.

McEwen said, "We, myself and F. Lee Bailey, have discussed at great length the possibility of asking for a change of venue from Sarasota."

DEFENDED SHEPPARD

Bailey is the Boston lawyer who defended Coppolino at his New Jersey trial. He also defended Dr. Sam Sheppard in second murder trial, at which he was acquitted in the death of his wife.

Coppolino was acquitted Thursday by a jury in Freehold, N.J., of the death of retired Lt.-Col. William E. Farber, once Coppolino's neighbor in New Jersey.

Death of his first wife, Carmela, 32, in August, 1965, was attributed to a heart attack until Mrs. Farber went to authorities with her story that her husband had been slain.

Mrs. Coppolino's body was exhumed and medical experts claim to have found lethal traces of anesthesia in her brain and liver.

Ontario Looking Closely

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The series of events involved in the collapse of Prudential Finance Corp. is being studied "very carefully" to determine whether government action is warranted, Premier John Roberts said Friday.

He did not rule out the possibility of a judicial inquiry but emphasized in an interview that he was not saying there would be one.

He noted that the Ontario Securities Commission is looking into aspects of the Prudential collapse and that criminal charges have already been laid against the finance company's president.

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — C. C. Carothers, former secretary of the bankrupt Prudential Finance Corp. Ltd., said Friday he is amazed at the mounting company losses being revealed in preliminary investigations.

At the first creditors' meeting in Toronto Thursday, J. L. Bidwell, president of Clarkson Co. Ltd., the trustee, said known losses are $17,000,000 and likely will eventually be more than $19,000,000.

Flash! Luci's Beagle Is Having Pups

NEW YORK (AP) — The World Journal Tribune Thursday called Mrs. Gerard Nugent, mother-in-law of Luci Johnson Nugent, to confirm reports that the newlyweds are expecting a "blessed event."

The conversation went like this:

Reporter: "Mrs. Nugent, a New York newspaper has reported that your daughter-in-law is expecting a baby next July."

Mrs. Nugent: "Why, that's wonderful news."

Reporter: "You haven't heard it before?"

Mrs. Nugent: "Why no, I hadn't."

Reporter: "When was the last time you talked to your son?"

Mrs. Nugent: "Sometime last week."

Reporter: "He didn't mention anything?"

Mrs. Nugent: "Nothing about Luci. I heard one of the beagles had pups."

Reporter: "Do you plan to call your son tonight?"

Mrs. Nugent: "No, I don't."

Reporter: "Don't you want to ask him?"

Mrs. Nugent: "No. You told me."

Reporter: "Mrs. Nugent, you sound like a lady who has had a lot of experience talking to the press."

Mrs. Nugent: "Only for the last year."

The reporter confirmed one fact anyhow — one of the beagles had pups.

Oil Bonanza Possible Near Rainbow

Some of the leading oil companies think there's a pot of gold at the end of the Rainbow. Black gold, that is. Oil!

They have asked the mines department to include in its next petroleum and natural gas rights sale an area near the Rainbow development in Alberta, which is shaping up as Canada's richest oil field.

NEXT SALE

Mines Minister Donald Brocks announced Friday the next sale will be held Jan. 25. He said bids will be received until 11 a.m. that date for rights to 87 parcels of land totalling 646,700 acres — all in the Peace River country.

THE SALE

The sale will include:

- Sixty-one leases totalling 20,768 acres, which surround active exploration interest areas.

- Eight drilling reservations totalling 67,987 acres, where companies will have to drill into specified formations and within a certain time limit.

- Twenty-one permits amounting to 537,975 acres, where geological exploration and seismic work can be carried out for a period of five years.

Robert Moss, chief commissioner for petroleum and natural gas, said the offerings include one drilling reservation and two permits in the "hot Rainbow trend area" 120 miles north of Fort St. John.

Seismic work is already being carried out by oil companies in this area, he said.

SALE RESULT

"We contemplate quite a lot of exploration work to be carried out as a result of the forthcoming sale," said Mr. Moss.

"Everybody's fighting for it. It's a very competitive business."

The sale of Crown-owned oil and gas rights brought B.C. a net revenue of nearly $16,000,000 in 1966.

RAPID GROWTH

Mines Minister Brocks earlier this week said the industry has grown so rapidly that it is within sight of catching the forest industry, in terms of net revenue to the government.

He pointed out that while mineral resources production is expected to reach an all-time high of $331,700,000 this year compared with the forest products industry's record $380,000,000 in 1965, the government makes nearly as much from mining as it does from forestry.

NET CASH

The forest industry brought the government a direct net income of $35,988,864 in 1965, while mineral resources was close behind with a net income of $33,448,051.

Mr. Brocks said if it is found the Rainbow field extends into B.C., "The sky's the limit — there's no telling where we can go from here."

Panhandle Hike Goal

The younger section of the Junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will meet at Douglas-Hillside on Saturday at 1:30 p.m. for an expedition to the Panhandle off Munn Road.

There will be no further meeting of the branch until the new year.

Magic Dragon Repulses Reds

U.S. Willing To Talk Ceasefire

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson conferred on Vietnam Friday with his top advisers, who said later the United States was still willing to discuss a prolonged ceasefire, but that a halt to Communist terrorism also should be taken up.

Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. ambassador to Saigon, also told newsmen after the meeting with Johnson that the question of whether U.S. forces should enter the key delta area south of Saigon was "very much under discussion."

Lodge said the military phase of the war was going "very well," the political phase "quite well," the economic phase satisfactorily but that the effort to halt terrorism is "not rolling as it should be."

The president conferred with Lodge, Defence Secretary Robert S. McNamara, U.N. ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg and moving ambassador Averell Harriman at a white house dinner session before flying to Texas to spend Christmas at his ranch.

Lodge said recent U.S. bombing raids in the area of Hanoi were not an "escalation" of the war.

One Missing, One Dead In Capsizing

MONTREAL (CP)—The coast freighter Cabot capsized early Friday while being loaded in Montreal harbor. One man of her 21-member crew was killed while another was missing.

The body of Marcel Cole of St. Siméon, Que., third officer on the 3,895-ton freighter, was recovered Friday, while another crew member, Gerard LeBlond of Cap Chat, Que., the second officer, was missing.

Nine crew members were injured when the ship heeled over. The 400-foot Cabot, launched 18 months ago and valued at $4,000,000, is lying on her side in about 30 feet of water.

SAIGON (UPI)—American advisers in the Mekong Delta south of Saigon today beat back a Communist attack on their compound. They were aided by a Puff the Magic Dragon gunship—a converted cargo plane that can spit 6,000 machine-gun bullets a minute.

Elsewhere, American ground, sea and air forces launched operations near Saigon and in the northern provinces of South Vietnam to thwart possible Communist terror reprisals for the alleged American bombing of Hanoi.

The Communists hit the advisers' compound, 18 miles west of Vinh Long, with small arms fire and mortars. A spokesman said there were no American casualties and that material damage was light.

Within seconds after the attack began, the dragon gunship lumbered over and drenched the area with bullets. The spokesman said there were at least four 30-calibre bullets for every square foot of ground around the compound. There was no immediate report of Communist casualties.

Several small skirmishes were reported on the fringes of Saigon Friday. American and Vietnamese troops moved through the countryside in search of springboard bases from which the Communists could launch attacks on the capital.

Medicare Bill Needs Only Royal Assent

OTTAWA (CP) — The controversial medical care insurance bill was passed by the Senate Friday over the protests of Senator Joseph Sullivan (PC-Ontario).

The measure was approved by the Commons Dec. 8. It now requires only royal assent to become law, but it likely will not take effect before July 1, 1968.

Senator Sullivan, a physician, shouted "on division" to record his opposition when the bill came up for third reading.

EXODUS FORECAST

In a brief statement earlier, he said the federal-provincial plan amounts to civil conscription of the medical profession.

He predicted an unprecedented exodus of Canadian doctors to other countries.

He said a similar plan was declared invalid by the Australian Supreme Court because it placed doctors under civil conscription.

CHECKS COSTS

Senator G. P. Burchill (L-New Brunswick) asked how much the medical plan will cost federal taxpayers annually.

The bill's sponsor, Senator Alan Macnaughton (L-Quebec), former Commons Speaker, said he has heard estimates ranging from $20,000,000 to $250,000,000. It would depend on the number of provinces joining the plan.

Mayor One Victim Of Record Rainfall

VANCOUVER (CP) — Forty days and 40 nights of rain and a record fall Thursday were blamed Friday for at least two deaths on the B.C. Mainland.

The weather office said a record 5.76 inches fell Thursday on Estevan Point on the west coast of Vancouver Island and 1.7 inches was dumped on Vancouver.

Mayor Robert Hope, 68, of neighboring Port Coquitlam, told his wife he was going out to survey the flooding. He died of an apparent heart seizure while George Arthur Hunt, 70, also of Coquitlam, went out to check a culvert in front of his home that was filled with five feet of water and apparently fell in. Cause of death was not immediately known.

Thursday's rain brought Vancouver's total for the month to 8.67 inches and the level since Nov. 1 to more than 16 inches.

Normal rainfall for the entire month of December is 6.50 inches.

Jacquie Takes Step

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mrs. Kennedy took her first legal step in state supreme court Friday to block publication of William Manchester's "The Death of a President" in "total disregard" of her rights.

Her attorneys asked for and got a show-cause order from Justice Saul Streit returnable Dec. 27.

He ordered Manchester, who was handpicked by the Kennedy family, to do an "official" version of the assassination, and

Unanimous Decision Over Torres

Nigerian Wrests Title

By JACK HAND (AP) — Jose Torres, a Nigerian, won the light-heavyweight crown in a unanimous decision in 15 rounds over the former champion, Dick Tiger, in a fight at Madison Square Garden.

BEHIND THE GLASS

By Jim Tang

TOTEM RUMBLE: There has been considerable rumbling about Vancouver's Totem Borspiel, which is supposed to be the showpiece of the Pacific Coast Curling Association and is hardly living up to that billing.

The most recent one, held just prior to the Grey Cup game, was attended by close to 150 rinks, which paid $60 each to enter. It attracted a number of "name" rinks, some of them from as far away as Winnipeg, but despite the stiff entry fee, prizes were little more than keepsakes in many instances.

One hears that Garnet Campbell, the famed Saskatchewan veteran, won prizes in two events and carried away a set of cuff links and a billfold. In any event, the prizes were so embarrassing and the banquet arrangements so inadequate that officials of the Vancouver Curling Club, among others, are going to ask for an explanation.

Borspiel officials defended their arrangements, but rather weakly, by countering that prizes didn't matter and that they weren't about to get their borspiel full of "pot-hunters."

"The Totem," a supporter was quoted, "is the biggest bargain in curling."

He'll get few supporters for that statement. It means a week off work for visiting curlers, accommodation, food and drink plus the largest entry fee in the province for a regular borspiel. Anyway you look at it, it's the most expensive borspiel in these parts and it should offer prizes commensurate with what it costs.

Borspiel prizes can be an arguable subject and the prize-committee chairman has yet to be born who can satisfy every curler. It isn't only how much money is spent but how it is spent. As for cost, good rule of thumb is that any curler who gets into the semi-finals in any event should at least get a prize with a retail value equal to his entry fee.

Totem purists can claim if they wish that it's the competition, not the prizes, that count. But borspiel officials working on that theory these days are likely to be looking for rinks to fill their quota. Any club that attempts to make a large profit on its borspiels is going to have unsuccessful borspiels.

And a lack of success is what the Totem can expect more of if it continues with its present thinking.

CHANGE NEEDED: It was an outstanding curling event when it was inaugurated in 1953 but since it became the official PCCA borspiel it has become less and less interesting to curlers not living on the Lower Mainland.

A backward step was taken when a new draw system was brought in to leave the Totem with only one open event. The draw was really only a Chisholm variation and while a so-called "championship" event was added, it was meaningless. In fact, it at least once brought a situation in which a rink deliberately lost its game to avoid the event because it didn't offer anything in the way of prizes.

The thought here about the Totem is that it should be divorced from the PCCA unless it offers a "back-door" entry to the Canada playdowns.

That's a thought that makes many Vancouver veterans shudder but it remains a fact that the biggest and most-talked about borspiels in the province once were the B.C. Curling Association borspiels which offered as an added inducement the extra chance to take part in provincial playoffs. Without that, the Totem has really nothing to offer curlers who don't reside in the Greater Vancouver area.

CANADIAN FILLING: Remember Joe Zbacnik, the North Dakota dentist who boldly announced last spring in Vancouver that his rink shouldn't lose a game in the Scotch Cup playdowns for the world curling championship?

The Fargo extractor and his United States champions from Fargo were not quite overwhelming but if you believe Dr. Zbacnik would pull it out there, you're wrong.

Eating a bit of crow only made him more determined to get some more bite into his rink and two of Fargo's newest citizens are Barry Fry and Winston Warren, two of Winnipeg's more talented shotmakers.

Fry and Warren, who have to establish two month's residence before being eligible to take part in the U.S. playdowns, are supposed to be working for Dr. Zbacnik as curling equipment salesmen but they'll likely be using it more than selling it. Fry will be vice-skip, Warren will throw second rocks and a St. Paul curler has been recruited to lead off.

And some curlers worry about big borspiel prizes making the game too professional.

Tiger, fighting for the six kids back home in Africa, gave away weight, age, reach and height while upsetting the 3-0-1 favorite before a crowd of 13,654 that paid $100.488.

Torres piled up a wide early lead and appeared on his way to a decisive victory until Tiger began to catch up with him in the middle rounds.

The Nigerian, who lost the middleweight crown to Emile Griffith last April 25, swept down the stretch with a fine rally.

TORRES AMAZED
Torres, 17, a native of Puerto Rico now living in New York, stood in wonder when the first round was announced. Referee Johnny Lo Bianco had scored it 10-5 for Tiger.

When the cards of judge Tony Castellano, 8-6-1, and judge Frank Forbes, 10-4-1, were announced, Torres went to mid-ring and shook hands with his conqueror.

The Associated Press had Tiger the winner 8-6-1.

"Always a slow starter, Tiger, 167, had trouble untracking himself Friday as Torres scored consistently with his left jab. In the fifth, a right hand lead by Jose appeared to shake up Tiger."

STEPPED UP PACE
The tide shifted in the sixth when Tiger started to get home with his thumping left hook to the body and his straight right under the heart.

Tiger, a strong counter puncher, was forced to take the lead in the seventh and eighth rounds when Torres slowed down.

In the 11th, they stood toe to toe and slugged away for most of the three minutes while the crowd roared. The fans had been booking in the slow sixth and seventh.

Torres, 30, was making his fourth defence of his title this year and had hoped to move on to a heavyweight title bout with Cassius Clay. This defeat put a serious dent in those hopes.

Torres had won the title from Willie Pastano March 30, 1963, but was inactive most of last year due to pancreas infection. He got back to work and defended successfully against Wayne Thornton, Eddie Cotton and Chic Calderwood before he stumbled over Tiger.

Nats Hope for Repetition of 1965 When Russians Fell in Victoria

One year and three days ago the Canadian amateur hockey team assembled in the Memorial Arena to meet the mighty Russians.

The Canadians were missing Roger Bourbonnais, Morris Mott and Gary Begg. The Canadians had played the Russians nine times since forming the national club and had lost them all.

The Canadians didn't play like losers that night. They checked, charged and scored — they won 6-1, a monumental victory.

RIG GUNN BACK
Monday night most of the Canadians will be back — this time with Messrs Bourbonnais, Mott and Begg — and none of the Russians.

The national team will play the Moscow Selects, a team whose players average 21 years. It's not the national team, the Russians stressed on their arrival in Vancouver Thursday night.

"We decided to bring some of our national team," the interpreter told newsmen. "Seven of the Selects have played on it. Some younger players have been brought for experience."

BOLD OUT
Naturally, Memorial Arena is sold out for the game. But there will be one extra person attending, a welcome addition.

He is Carl Brewer, finally sold out for the game. But there will be one extra person attending, a welcome addition.

clear to join the Canadian National. The 27-year-old former Toronto Maple Leaf defenseman will be playing with the Nationals against the Russians in Vancouver Sunday and in Victoria Monday.

Naturally, his new teammates are glad to have him on the squad.

Roger Bourbonnais summed up the reaction when he said: "Man, it's about time."

NOT IN SHAPE
Coach Jackie McLeod said he realizes that Brewer is not in top shape and it will take time to get him into form.

He wasn't able to practice with the Nationals prior to obtaining his release and while he skated to keep in trim, "it wasn't the best and couldn't take the place of workouts with the team," McLeod said.

Defenceman Terry O'Malley said Brewer should mean at least one less goal against the Russians.

Gary Begg said: "He is bound to help us experience-wise and in many other aspects. He is going to be a fine teacher. We'll learn a lot from him."

Brewer went to Winnipeg in October but was restricted to selling tickets and welfare work with the Indian affairs department in Kenora, Ont.

Women Curlers At Esquimalt

Seven rinks start play this morning in the South Island women's curling playdowns, to decide two survivors who will meet the two North Island winners for the Island zone title.

One rink from Duncan and two each from the Victoria, Esquimalt and Allan's Curling Clubs will play a double knock-out competition. First draw is at 9:30 and the second at 2 p.m. this afternoon. Succeeding draws are at 8 a.m., 12 noon and 4 p.m. tomorrow.

Draw for position will be made this morning. Representing the Duncan club is a rink skipped by Verla Evans.

Long-Term Contract Signed by Saban

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Lou Saban agreed to terms of a four-year contract which started at $22,500 a year, was being unfair.

"We believe that serious consideration of the job with Denver at this time is contrary to what he told the university he was going to do; is indicative of his consideration of breaking his contract, that it is unfair to the university; and that it will hurt the university's football program."

Selects Drop First Game

TRAIL—The touring Moscow Selects started their American tour on a sour note, Friday night losing to a Western International League All-Star team before 4,501 spectators in Trail, B.C.

Jim Chow, with two, Murray Owens, Dave Russell and Walt Peacock scored for the All-Stars. Victor Yaroslavtsev, Sergei Shilov, George Chichurin and Igor Woygov replied for the Selects.

He sat out hockey last year and coached the Winnipeg Junior Rangers to the provincial championship.

Another newcomer to the nationals is Danny O'Shea, 21. Last year he scored 77 goals with the Oshawa Generals of the Ontario Hockey Association.

At six-foot one-inch and 185 pounds, he is one of the biggest players on the nationals. He has a blazing slap shot which comes in low and fast.

EXPECT WIN
The Russians, at Vancouver airport Thursday, said they expected to win all nine games.

The youngest player on the squad is Vladimir Chadrin, a first-year University student.

Oldest is Vladimir Chinov, 37. The Russians spoke through an interpreter and they could not understand Penicton, where their plane would land if bad weather kept it out of Castlegar near Trail, and the names "Vees" didn't bring any response.

But the name "Warwick" resulted in five faces lighting up as they recalled the Warwick brothers of the Penicton Vees who won the world title in 1965.

The Russians are scheduled to arrive in Victoria around noon Monday.

Mueller conducting rehearsal for Christmas Oratorio

Symphony Choice Fitting

By WILLIAM THOMAS

There are really only two great composers of oratorio: Bach and Handel.

As Handel was probably the more secular of the pair, it is fitting that the Bach Christmas Oratorio should be presented this weekend as the first pair of extra concerts offered by the Victoria Symphony Society in this 1966-67 season.

Otto-Werner Mueller will be guest conductor with the Victoria Symphony and a choir of more than 150 voices.

MONDAY SPONSOR

Five soloists have been engaged for the concert at the Royal Theatre, the first Sunday at 2 p.m. and the second Monday at 8:30 p.m.

The Daily Colonist will sponsor the Monday concert. The Bach work is not an oratorio in the sense that it is a single cohesive work. It is rather a series of six Christmas cantatas intended to be performed on six Sundays during the Christmas season.

Modern practice has been to play the first three segments that actually relate to Christmas.

Rodney Webster has been responsible for training the chorus which has been supplemented by the boys' choir of Christ Church Cathedral. Richard Proudman in his assistant and accompanist to the choral society.

Soloists are Audrey Glass, mezzo-soprano; Sheila Marks, contralto; Robert Peters, tenor; Stanley Martin, bass, and Derek MacDermot, bass-baritone.

WELL KNOWN

The two local soloists, Mr. Martin and Mr. MacDermot, are well-known in city music circles. Stanley Martin is remembered for his role in the Menotti opera Amahl and the Night Visitors and also for his singing in an earlier presentation of the Bach oratorio and Beethoven's ninth symphony.

Derek MacDermot has sung in local productions of the Bach St. Matthew Passion, the Christmas Oratorio and the Mozart Requiem.

Tenor Peters is an established singer of opera, oratorio and lieder. He has appeared in Mozart's Magic Flute and a number of productions for CBC, and has been a regular soloist with the Montreal Elgar Choir.

The Vancouver mezzo has won both the San Francisco Opera and the Metropolitan Opera auditions in Western Canada. Recently she toured British Columbia in the role of the mother in Hansel and Gretel.

The program offers an exciting climax to the first half of the current symphony season.

Final performances of Red Eye of Love are tonight and Sunday night.

The play, produced in Boston's studio theatre at 1322A Government, is a comedy by Arnold Weinstein, directed by Eugene Gallant.

Barbara Waldner plays Selma Chagresse, described in the cast as a "loving young thing."

John Heath is Wilmer Flange, a poor young fool.

O. D. Martin, a poetry-spouting meat tycoon, is played by Dan Christian.

Also in the cast are veterans like Joy and John Richards, who play many parts.

The play is performed arena-style, with the audience seated on three sides of the playing area.

British Resume Dollar Payment

LONDON (AP) — After skipping repayments for two years because of the sterling crisis, the British government has decided to resume its annual payments on the postwar dollar loan by Canada and the U.S.

The 1966 payment, about $180,000,000, will be made on schedule at the end of the month.

Stan Delaplane

OCHOS RIOS, Jamaica — This is the rum-and-sugar island. The sea breeze is warm as mother's love, and you could bathe the baby in the sapphire blue water. (The local people DO bathe the baby in it. But for the rest of us, it costs money.)

It's the season now. The snowy North American tourist is on the winter migration. To bidinis and Madras shorts. To rum-and-milk-and-banana in a frosty glass.

It's pricey country. $40 single to $65 double with two meals is about it. I did manage one night for $30 with breakfast.

Newest of the Jamaica north shore resorts is the Playboy Club Hotel — yes, Playboy magazine — with 21 bunny girls going lipperty-loppity. And between the lip and the lop, just about falling out of those briefs.

bunny suits. It's integrated. The bunnies run from cream to coffee color.

You can buy at free port prices here. Language is English. Money is the Jamaica pound. You can drink the water. But don't. Ask the bunny for a rabbit punch. Makes you forget where you hid the Easter eggs.

"We are buying and picking up a car in England (making arrangements here through the auto agency). Now we have heard the cars used in Europe are inferior. That they export their better models."

Most of the foreign cars do have export models — a little more chrome etc. But, if you order here, the export model is what they deliver to you in Europe. At least that's the way it's worked for me.

"We are on a Mason winter cruise. Could you tell us how they dress?"

Sports clothes for daytime. But these are dressy ships at night. Cocktail dresses for women. And you won't be out of place with one formal for the Captain's Dinner. Most of the men will be in black tie every night. On all cruise ships, the rule is no dressing up the first night out and the last night getting into port.

"We would like to bring lei home when we fly from Hawaii. Is that allowed?"

Yes. The stewardess will give you a plastic bag to put them in. Tell your taxi driver to stop at the lei sellers' huts on the airport road. You can buy anything there.

"We will be travelling in Europe next summer. Do you think our things are safe in hotel rooms? Or should we have locks put on our suitcases?"

I never lock suitcases and have never lost anything. I don't leave money around openly. But I don't lock up cameras or binoculars. Put expensive jewelry in the hotel safe. I think European hotels are safer than New York's, which have had some pretty good burglaries.

"... a present for my boyfriend who is being transferred to Europe?"

A cigarette lighter. Free matches are still a rare thing in Europe.

Hotel Rates To Go Up

MONTREAL (CP) — The Queen Elizabeth Hotel, largest hotel in Montreal with 1,216 rooms, indicated last week that room rates will be increased next year, perhaps by as much as 10 to 12 per cent.

R. E. Groome, vice-president of the CNR Hotel which is operated by Hilton Hotels International, told a press conference that only higher operating costs would alter room rates during Expo '67, the Montreal world's fair.

"Cost escalation should not alter Queen Elizabeth room rates by more than 10 to 12 per cent. Notice of intention has already been filed with the provincial government."

Unions Like Proposals

Shipyard Peace Seems Sure

Christmas celebrations could have an extra zing for some 2,300 members of 23 Victoria and Vancouver unions, with settlement of a two-year contract in sight between three shipyards and their employees.

Negotiations began last September between Victoria Machinery Depot and Yarrow, and 1,200 Victoria employees, and Burrard Dry Dock and 1,100 Vancouver employees.

A ballot on the recommendations will be held among members and the results will be known three days before Christmas.

MAJORITY PREPARED
Conciliator Jack Sherlock's report was considered by the unions Friday and representatives of 17 of the unions were prepared to recommend acceptance of the recommendations to the membership.

Representatives of the other five unions said only they were prepared to take the report back to their memberships.

Meetings will be held starting Monday, with members balloting for acceptance or rejection of the report. Ballots will be opened Thursday.

FIGURES GIVEN

The report recommended a 9 per cent across the board increase.

The unions asked for raises of 65 and 70 cents an hour. The recommended increase will give journeymen a 30-cent hourly increase during the first year of the contract, with about 24 cents an hour more for other workers.

During the second year, the report recommends a 20-cent across the board increase.

DOUBLE PAY

The report does not recommend reduction of the work week from the present 40 hours, but does support double pay for overtime after the first two hours.

If accepted the contract will be retroactive to Oct. 15, 1966. Other benefits mentioned in the report include:

• Statutory holidays will be 3.6 per cent of straight time.

• Annual holiday benefits for long service will give employees with eight years of service three weeks annual holiday during the first year of the contract. During the second year employees with five years of service will have three weeks holiday, and those with 20 years of service will have four weeks.

New Chancellor:

Fees Frozen Through '67

The new chancellor of the University of Victoria confirmed Friday that students at the university next year can put aside any fears of there being a fee increase.

"The university budget is formulated on the basis of no fee increase," said R. B. Wilson, former mayor of Victoria who will assume chancellor duties Jan. 1, 1967.

Mr. Wilson's appointment to the coveted university post was confirmed in a university release which also announced election results of six vacancies in the University Senate.

SECOND TERM

Re-elected to the senate for a second term are Mr. Justice John G. Rutan of the Supreme Court of British Columbia, and L. J. Wallace, deputy provincial secretary.

Elected for the first time were Canon C. Hilary Butler, Dr. J. F. K. English, Dr. Charles Gregory and Dr. Frederick H. Sanders, all of Victoria.

All terms involved, including the chancellor, are for three years. As chancellor, Mr. Wilson is automatically a senator. Mr. Wilson succeeds Dr. Joseph B. Clearius, who retired

Dentist's Drill No Problem With Hypnosis

By NANCY BROWN

The dentist's drill need hold no terrors for 90 per cent of the population, who can respond to a hypnotist's suggestion.

For 20 per cent of the population even major surgery can be accomplished without discomfort, anaesthetic, or even apprehension, according to Victoria hypnotist Frank Mallory.

Frank Mallory is past president of the Victoria Hypnosis Society, and a member of the Association to advance ethical hypnosis.

At a meeting in his Howe Street home, Friday, he demonstrated upon seven Victorians, who are hoping to learn the art of self-hypnosis in the new year.

The strange part about the trance is the knowledge of all that is happening, and the consciousness of everything around in the room, coupled with the inability to resist the hypnotist's suggestions.

There are six depths of trance, ranging from a feeling of lethargy, to a complete somnambulistic stage. After first stages there is complete recall by the subject of all that happened, and during the deeper stages there can be amnesia or not, as the hypnotist directs.

Lesser known advantages of hypnosis, are the ways it can be used to cure drug, alcohol or cigarette addiction. Mr. Mallory stresses that no one can be cured of any addiction unless he wants to be.

The Victoria Hypnosis Society meets monthly in a private home. Some 35 members and guests attend meetings, where demonstrations and tests are carried out.

Substantiating the truth of the statement that no one under hypnotic suggestion will do anything they don't normally do, Frank Mallory said at one meeting he had a number of the girls in a trance, in which he suggested that they were going on a trip with their husbands.

When he told them to get into the car, one girl, normally co-operative just woke up. Questioned, she said she wasn't married, and wasn't getting into any man's car to go for a trip.

"With self-hypnosis you can work, and work well," said one member. "I know of a girl who wanted to pass examination, but nervousness made her fail. Hypnotised she was calm enough to come out with top marks."

"Hypnosis," says Mr. Mallory, "will not cure ulcers, but it will stop you getting them in the first place. It allows you to work without worry."

He stressed that hypnotism should not be learned or practised frivolously.

Hydro to Keep Buses For One Full Year

News that B.C. Hydro would continue to operate the present transit systems on the mainland and Victoria through the end of 1967 came as a surprise to Mayor Hugh Stephen Friday.

The announcement was made by Mayor William Rathie in Vancouver Friday night and confirmed by B.C. Hydro co-chairman Dr. Hugh Keenleyside.

"This, of course, is fine," said Mayor Stephen.

He said he had seen Mayor Rathie Monday and discussed the transit system in general terms as to what was going to happen in the coming year.

"This is all right with us, of course, but I would rather see a permanent arrangement worked out," said Mayor Stephen.

He added one reason for the extension might be to bring all franchises into a line so they were terminated at the same time.

WORK IT OUT
Dr. Keenleyside told the Colonist the idea of the extension was to allow time to work out a solution to the eventual operation of the transit systems in the municipalities.

Mayor Rathie said Hydro agreed to a request by a committee headed by the mayors of Vancouver, New Westminster and Victoria to continue to operate the transit system for 1967.

The late mayor A. W. Toone represented Victoria on this committee.

INTO LAPS
Mayor Rathie said earlier he feared Hydro planned to dump the transit system into the laps of Lower Mainland municipalities when their franchises expired at the end of this year.

The extension gives Victoria an extra four months. Hydro's franchise in the city would not ordinarily have expired until next September.

Jurymen at a coroner's inquest Friday night looked out at a Sooke couple's extensive militaristic in their home as being the root cause of one of their children being shot to death.

Kevin King, 9, of 1903 Maple, in Sooke, died Tuesday in St. Joseph's Hospital three days after being wounded in the head while he and his younger brother were firing .22 calibre rifles.

The jury's verdict was that the death was accidental, but the six Sooke men added a rider for the consideration of Coroner Edmund Jorja de St. Jorre and the attorney-general's department.

500 Shoot Starts Today
Expert and amateur gunners will both be trying their luck at Victoria Gun Club's annual turkey, ham and bacon shoot today and Sunday.

Contestants are placed in categories as to their ability, so trigger-knowledge isn't necessarily a factor in winning.

Proceeds from the shoot, which will be held from 10 a.m. to dusk each day at the club's Albert Head grounds, are earmarked for the Colonial 500 Fund.

Low Tender By Campbell
Lowest of several tenders received by city council Thursday for construction of a block-long canopy on the north side of the 700 Block, Yates Street, was submitted by W. Campbell Ltd.

The Daily Colonist incorrectly reported on Friday the lowest bid was submitted by another Victoria firm.

Tender of the Campbell company was for $34,250.

All tenders will be considered by the finance committee.

STEPPED TOO FAR
He had been firing his hand gun in his back yard at the time of the incident, he said, and was being watched by his children.

Michael had stepped too far forward, and it was at this point that his father kicked him in the back of the head "face first into the mud" in order to discipline him.

The jury's recommendation said this incident "indicates an unusual amount of brutality not common amongst most fathers."

The jury also criticized the mother for being absent from her home "leaving a nine-year-old child in charge."

The jurymen felt this "showed a negligence in her supervision of her household."

The jury's findings concluded with the recommendation "that an investigation into the home life of this family should be taken up by the proper authorities. This recommendation holds the highest priority as far as this jury is concerned in order to uncover the underlying causes that caused this death."

In evidence both parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert King, had stated that none of their five children was allowed into their bedroom, and that penalties had been meted out for disobedience of this home rule in the past.

Both guns used by the children had been kept in the bedroom, the parents said, and evidence showed that once the parents were not near to supervise the children, the boys of the family had on several occasions sneaked out into the yard with the guns and ammunition to take target practice.

On the occasion of Kevin's death, only his brother, Michael, 8, and his sister, Sara Lee, 7, were at the home. The father was at sea.

Both parents talked of "disciplining" their children in their bedroom, and that penalties had been meted out for disobedience of this home rule in the past.

Sooke Shooting Death

Inquest Jury Lashes 'Militaristic' Parents

By JERRY BOULTREE

Jurymen at a coroner's inquest Friday night looked out at a Sooke couple's extensive militaristic in their home as being the root cause of one of their children being shot to death.

Kevin King, 9, of 1903 Maple, in Sooke, died Tuesday in St. Joseph's Hospital three days after being wounded in the head while he and his younger brother were firing .22 calibre rifles.

The jury's verdict was that the death was accidental, but the six Sooke men added a rider for the consideration of Coroner Edmund Jorja de St. Jorre and the attorney-general's department.

KICKED IN HEAD
The jury felt that a "strict military discipline" had been imposed on the young children of the family.

This, they felt, was apparent in the testimony of Robert King, the father, "whereby he stated (that) to enforce discipline he kicked Michael (his son, playmate of Kevin) in the back of the head and drove him face first into the mud."

Mr. King, a coast guard officer, had mentioned this in his testimony to illustrate the strictest form of discipline was maintained regarding the use of firearms.

STEPPED TOO FAR
He had been firing his hand gun in his back yard at the time of the incident, he said, and was being watched by his children.

The jurymen felt this "showed a negligence in her supervision of her household."

The jury's findings concluded with the recommendation "that an investigation into the home life of this family should be taken up by the proper authorities. This recommendation holds the highest priority as far as this jury is concerned in order to uncover the underlying causes that caused this death."

In evidence both parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert King, had stated that none of their five children was allowed into their bedroom, and that penalties had been meted out for disobedience of this home rule in the past.

Both guns used by the children had been kept in the bedroom, the parents said, and evidence showed that once the parents were not near to supervise the children, the boys of the family had on several occasions sneaked out into the yard with the guns and ammunition to take target practice.

On the occasion of Kevin's death, only his brother, Michael, 8, and his sister, Sara Lee, 7, were at the home. The father was at sea.

Both parents talked of "disciplining" their children in their bedroom, and that penalties had been meted out for disobedience of this home rule in the past.

Mount Douglas

Beauty Back In 75 Years

Fire-blackened and bare will prove its ability to survive, Mount Douglas is expecting new tenants before it regains all the old ones.

The area was hard hit by fire last September, but naturalists Freeman King expects it will eventually regain all its former beauty. However, it is likely to take as long as 75 years before everything is restored.

Meanwhile he sees the area providing a unique opportunity for the study of plant growth.

"The Garry oaks and arbutus trees were the hardest hit and, although they will both send up suckers from the roots, it takes the Garry oak 75 to 80 years to grow to full size," Mr. King explained.

Mount Douglas has always produced an abundance of broom, and Mr. King expects it will prove its ability to survive, either by seeds or suckers, and provide a glow of color next summer.

At the same time he expects to see some of nature's "rarest" plants put in an appearance.

"For this next two or three years, the fireweed, creeping blackberry and some willows will establish themselves to perform the double duty of providing protection and nutrient for other plants to return."

"While the process of rejuvenation is going on, ecologists, particularly those at the university, should not pass up the chance to map its course," Mr. King said.

"I won't live to see it, but I am sure that one day Mount Douglas will look as it did before the fire," he added.

You might say I want to eat my cake and have it, too. What is your advice? — CRAZY MIXED-UP KID

Dear C. Mixed-Up: You have carefully avoided giving me two important facts. How old are you? Also, is this boy friend your first, or have you dated others?

My boy friend read the first letter I received from the Marine and asked me to stop writing him. I have not mentioned the Marine since and I'm sure he thinks I followed his instructions.

Now the Marine writes that he will be home next month and of course he wants to take me out. I am dying to go out with him, but I love my boy friend and I know he would never stand for my dating someone else. We plan to be married in a

Dear Ann Landers: I have been keeping company with a certain boy for over a year. Eight months ago a Marine stationed in Viet Nam wrote to our local newspaper asking for mail from his home town. I wrote to him and we have been carrying on a lively correspondence ever since.

Any advice? — WIFE OF A LUMMOX

Dear Wife: Keep quiet and

Dear Ann Landers: One of the things I remember about my husband before we were married is that he was always so handy around the house—his mother's house that is. He fixed everything from her sewing machine to the septic tank. Single-handed he built a tool shed for his dad.

We have been married six years and I can't get him to do a solitary thing around here. We bought an old house at a very good price with the understanding that he would fix it up.

What a fool I was to believe him. Everywhere I look I see things that need to be done.

Right now I am aggravated because the back door doesn't close properly and there's a 30-mile gale blowing through the kitchen. I've been asking my husband to fix it since June.

Is there a solution that I don't see? — STYMIED

Dear Stymied: Please read the next letter and maybe you'll feel better.

Dear Ann Landers: I am married to a man who is in the insurance business and we can well afford to hire repairmen when something needs fixing around here. My husband, however, has the notion that he is a mechanic, a carpenter and a master plumber. Most of my appliances are no longer working because of his botched-up handiwork. Every single faucet he has "fixed" worked better before he monkeyed with it. He has spent a fortune on tools and new parts and nothing he puts together is worth a tinker's damn.

The engagement is announced of Elizabeth Eileen, only daughter of Mrs. Margaret Crozier and the late Mr. Crozier, to Mr. Robert James Smirl, Jr., eldest son of Mr. and Mrs.

R. J. Smirl. The wedding will take place Jan. 28 at St. Mary's Anglican Church, Oak Bay, with Rev. Canon Hywel Jones officiating.

Nicholls-Howard

Double-Ring Ceremony Held in Naden Chapel

Joanne Elizabeth Howard, daughter of Lt.-Cmdr. and Mrs. Arthur P. Howard, 925 Parklands Drive, became the bride of Mr. Ronald Gary Nicholls at a double-ring ceremony in St. Andrew's Chapel, Canadian Forces Base (Naden).

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernie Nicholls, 1182 Colville Road.

Rev. A. G. Faraday officiated at the recent evening wedding. Given in marriage by her father the petite bride chose an exquisite gown of white embroidered brocade in slim, A-line style with empire waistline. A floor-length matching train fell from the shoulders and a pearl-studded wedding ring headdress held her five-tiered net veil. Her only jewelry was a pearl necklace and earring set, which belonged to her mother. She carried a cascade of yellow roses.

Miss Patricia Roskamp, maid of honor, and Miss Judy Nicholls, sister of the groom, as bridesmaids, were gowned alike in turquoise peau sole gowns styled after the bride's ensemble. They wore matching floral headdresses and carried lan shaped bouquets of yellow and bronze chrysanthemums. Pearl necklaces and matching pearl drop earrings, gifts of the bride, complemented their gowns.

Mr. Robert Buie was best man. Ushering were Mr. Michael Howard, bride's brother, and Mr. Terence Mar-son. Lieut. George Green proposed the toast to the bride at the reception which followed in the wardroom.

For a honeymoon trip south to the United States the new Mrs. Nicholls wore a winter white French silk brocade suit and black accessories.

The newlyweds will make their home at 1701 Cedar Hill Cross Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Howard, Mr. and Mrs. A. Principle, all of Vancouver, and Mr. Dwayne Sheridan, Cobble Hill, were guests from out of town.

Get to Church on Time!

In the church, the guests had all arrived, the minister was ready, and the groom was waiting — but no bride!

Meanwhile, three blocks away, Jeanette Heskin's car had run out of gas. Rescue was at hand and with the help of a passing good Samaritan the bride was deposited at the church on time — almost.

The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nels Heskin, of Norquay, Sask. and the groom, Michal Palamar, is the son of John Palamar, 407 William Street, Victoria.

Rev. Norman Falks officiated at the service in the Church of the Nazarene, Craigflower Road, and the bride's uncle, Ivor Moline, gave her in marriage.

A reception and dinner followed in the Dominion Hotel. Peter Heskin, Duncan, proposed the toast to his niece and Mrs. E. Sawchuk, Fanny Bay, B.C., was soloist.

Youth choir of Central Baptist Church sings at 7 p.m. Sunday

In City Churches

Nine Lessons, Carols

Special Christmas services are being held in most Greater Victoria churches on Sunday, the fourth Sunday in Advent. The season is being marked by cantatas, candlelight carols, White Gift services and pageants. The traditional Nine Lessons and Carols will be performed in a number of churches. The theme of this service is delineated by the lessons which trace God's love for man from his creation to his redemption in Christ's coming at Christmas.

At Christ Church Cathedral, the annual festival of Nine Lessons and Carols will be celebrated at 4 p.m. Introduced by music from the handbells and the two organs, carols will be sung by the boys', adults and girls' choirs. The congregation will join in some of the singing. The service, which begins in candlelight, will be conducted by Dean Brian Whitlow and Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes will read the eighth lesson.

There will be a similar candlelight service at 4 p.m. in Emmanuel Baptist Church replacing the regular 7:30 p.m. service.

In Belmont Avenue United, the lesson and carol service will be given at 11 a.m. Senior and junior choirs will share in the music. At 7 p.m. the CGIT will hold their traditional vespers service and will present tableaux with a Huron Indian setting, depicting a visit to the baby Jesus.

In Centennial United Church, Nine Lessons and Carols will be performed at 11 a.m. The choir will sing traditional carols, among them The Three Kings.

by Cornelius, with David Conrad as bass soloist; A Virgin Most Pure, old English; A Great and Mighty Wonder, a German carol; Past Three O'Clock; In Dulci Jubilo and Torch. The CGIT will present their vespers service at 7:30 p.m.

At St. John's Anglican Church, the Nine Lessons and Carols will be heard at night. The girls', boys' and senior choirs will be directed by Donald Woodworth in traditional carols that go back centuries and also in new arrangements by modern musicians. Some of them are Sir Malcolm Sargent, the famous English conductor; David Willcocks, director of music at King's College, Cambridge; Vaughan Williams and John Joubert.

Dr. J. B. Rowell, pastor emeritus, will preach at both services Sunday in Central Baptist Church, taking as his one subject The Divine Purpose in the Advent — The At-One-Ment. At 7 p.m. the youth choir, under the direction of Mrs. Arla Rendie, will present the Christmas cantata Love Transcending by John A. Peterson.

GUEST SOLOIST
Guest soloist will be George Wall, taking the lead, with soloists Mudy King, Margaret McKee and Mrs. Rendie also taking part. Pianist is Janet Henshaw and narrator is George Parsons, Jr. The Sunday school Christmas program will be held at 3 p.m.

During the week, special activities have been planned at the Salvation Army Harbor Light Centre, 516 Yates. There will be Christmas services at 8 p.m. every night by various church musical groups.

The 11 a.m. sermon topic by Rev. N. K. Archer at Emmanuel and Stevenson Memorial Baptist Churches Sunday morning is The Shepherds.

In Cadboro Bay United Church, the CGIT and Explorer groups will present a Christmas vespers service in story, song and living picture at 7 p.m.

At the 11 a.m. service Rev. C. Leighton Straight will preach on The Royal Servant, third in a series of Advent sermons. The choir, under the direction of organist Mrs. Margaret Williams, will sing selection from Muanders' Bethlehem.

A Review of the Features in the Plan of Salvation is the topic for Pastor S. G. White in the Victoria Seventh-Day Adventist Church at 11 a.m. today. The pastor will conduct a communion service and the Ordinance of Humility in which members of the congregation wash one another's feet.

Robert D. Ferguson will be guest speaker at the 11 a.m. service in Victoria Truth Centre. His subject is Sowing and Reaping. Dr. Emma M. Smiley will speak on the topic, Take Your Star Down, at 7:30 p.m.

Carol Rite Replaces Sermon

The sacrament of infant baptism will be held at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church at the morning service Sunday. There will be a presentation of white gifts and Very Rev. Dr. J. L. W. McLean will preach on God's Songs and Ours. In place of the evening sermon, the festival of Nine Lessons and Carols will be presented. Dr. McLean will be assisted by a student for the ministry, Allan Glen.

Silent-Vigil Protest 'Louder'

Langford United and First of the commission of churches on international affairs for the World Council of Churches, recently directed an appeal to Secretary of State Rusk, the foreign ministers of Russia, Britain, India, Canada and Poland, South and North Vietnam.

The Victoria presbytery of the United Church has gone on record as supporting the vigils, which take place every Saturday and are recommended more Canadian responsibility in Vietnam.

WORLD COUNCIL

The action follows resolutions by other groups, including the World Council of Churches.

"Protests are getting louder and louder," said Rev. Dr. K. H. Prior, 1310 Dallas, a veteran of 30 years in Africa and 10 years as field secretary in Western Canada for the board of world missions of the United Church.

AT THIS TIME

"We feel the vigils are more important than ever at this time of escalation in the war," Dr. Prior said.

"The increased protests from various quarters including the Pope, the National Council of Churches in the U.S. and the World Council of Churches, don't seem to be stopping the escalation."

The world council is advocating an additional cease fire following one that is to be arranged at Christmas.

Dr. Frederick Nolde, director

"We must never allow anything to blind us to the true significance of what happened at Bethlehem," said Rev. John A. Watson of First Baptist Church.

"Behind all the communication, all the decoration and justification lies the greatest fact of human history. Let us come and worship; let us go again unto the manger and see this thing that has happened, which the Lord has made known to us."

"Then Christmas 1966 will be genuine for us and we will be enabled to glorify and praise God for all we have heard and seen."

The church choir will sing the Christmas cantata Bethlehem at the evening service Sunday.

Diabelli Mass Sung

Members of the Victoria Symphony Orchestra will join with the choir of St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church on Haultain to present a concert at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Major work on the program will be the Pastoral Mass, opus 147 in F Major by Anton Diabelli.

The mass will be sung at the midnight service Christmas Eve in St. Patrick's. In order to accommodate the many admirers of sacred music who will be unable to attend the mass on Christmas Eve, the Thursday performance is being given.

VIENNA START

The mass was composed for Christmas Eve in 1830 and was performed in St. Peter's Church, Vienna. Each Christmas since that date, it has been performed there in memory of its composer.

It will be presented Thursday in the original score from the church archives in Vienna.

SOLOISTS LISTED

Soloists will be Leona Hanley, soprano; Mrs. Dorothy Rule, alto; Arnold van Klaveren, tenor; and Albert Mansfield, bass.

Orchestra members will be Trudi Conrad and Doreen Hunt, violins; Otto Niedermann, viola; George Kiraly and Tibor Ritich; Ian Franklin Meredith, flute; Ian Franklin, oboe; Walter Staub, bassoon; Michael and Robert Gill, trumpet; Kelly Tippet, timpani.

SEVERAL CAROLS

In addition to the Diabelli there will be a Motet for Advent entitled Rorate Coeli by Christopher Tye, 1572; several carols including Christnachtgall, sung by junior members of the choir, accompanied by violin and flute, and a sonata for two instruments by C. P. Telemann. There will be a silver collection.

Seven Seek Extra Truce

PARIS (AP)—The assembly of the Western European Union has unanimously adopted a resolution calling for an extension of the Christmas and New Year's truce in Vietnam "until the conditions for a durable peace agreement have been reached." The WEU is made up of France, Italy, West Germany, Holland, Belgium, Luxembourg and Britain.

California Family Singers Here Boxing Day

Karlstad Family Singers of San Leandro, Calif., will appear at Lutheran Church of the Cross, Cedar Hill at Cedar Hill Cross Road, at 7:30 p.m., Dec. 26. Family has a wide range of selections, from Bach to Kodaly. Father, Alfred Karlstad, was pastor at Gloria Dei Lutheran Church in Tacoma for several years before family started giving concerts. Karlstad has appeared in more than 400 churches in Canada and U.S. Public is invited.

Victoria Symphony

Oratorio Heard This Sunday

Church Choir

Long-Playing Disc Fine Holiday Gift

By WILLIAM THOMAS

This is the time of year when many people cast about looking for a gift that offers something of a local flavor. Probably one of the most suitable and one that carries a truly local feeling is the record Hear My Prayer by the choir of Christ Church Cathedral with featured soloist-treble Bill Dyson.

This long-playing record has a total of 12 selections that provide variety and a sustained musical quality.

The bells used on the first cut are a replica of those at Westminster Abbey. They were installed in 1936 by Yarrows Ltd. under the supervision of E. W. Izard.

Richard Proudman must take the greatest credit for this production. He has trained the adult choir, the boys choir and also the soloists Bill Dyson and Stephen Horning.

Mr. Proudman opens the record with Jeremiah Clarke's Trumpet Voluntary and then offers Max Reges' Tocatta in D minor to begin the second side.

Bill Dyson sings two major solos, Hear My Prayer and Let the Bright Seraphim. His is a fine clear voice that will not last much longer in its present range. There are already signs that this may be his last record as a treble.

Another fine performance is given by Soprano Laura Groos who sings Dvorak's God is My Shepherd. Mendelssohn's southern Grand Us Thy Peace gets a fine treatment by Eleanor Ashford and William Broadhead.

In addition to the choirs the congregations sing the well-known hymn Let Us With A Gladness Mind.

This record would seem to provide an excellent opportunity for Christmas giving. It is definitely local in color and seasonal in its concept.

Garden Notes

By M. V. CHESTNUT

While we do our gardening in the most favored spot in the whole of Canada, we do have our spells of bad weather, even though the Tourist Bureau may not admit it, and it is important to know what to do for the welfare of our plants when the going gets tough. Heavy snows and prolonged periods of low temperatures are highly beneficial to the soil, but they can make a shambles of our gardens unless suitable precautions are taken.

An urgent job at this time of year is to keep all pools and ponds filled with water, for the greater the depth, the more protection there will be for the fish and the lily roots below. Severe frost will reduce the free swimming space beneath the ice and shallow ponds could freeze to the bottom, with disastrous results.

Shallow pools, 12 inches and under, can be protected by laying a few boards across and covering these with evergreen boughs or straw. Deeper pools can be treated in the following manner: Allow a good crust of ice to form, at least an inch thick, covering the whole surface, then chop a hole in one corner about a foot square. Use your garden hose as a siphon to draw off enough water to lower the level by a couple of inches.

With the water level lowered, cover the chopped hole with a bit of glass or sheet of plastic held in place with bricks or stones. This will keep out the cold air and prevent the water from freezing below. There now will be a layer of air trapped between the sheet of ice and the surface of the water, and this dead air is an excellent insulator. The sheet of ice acts like the glass roof of a greenhouse, keeping the water below snug and cozy. Needless to say, you have to get out there and repeat the performance between each thaw and freeze.

Snow has many virtues in the garden, and in parts of Europe it is sometimes called "poor man's manure" because of the revitalizing effect it has on tired soils. Because of the air trapped in it, a good cover of light, fluffy snow insulates and protects small and low-growing plants against the effects of low temperatures. The larch and evergreen trees make a delightful Christmas card picture when mantled in snow.

Trouble is, our kind of snow is never light and fluffy. It is heavy wet stuff, with no insulating value and its sheer weight can do untold damage if our tree branches are allowed to carry this unaccustomed burden too long.

After such a snowfall, the wise gardener will visit his shrubs and trees to shake the branches with a rake or a crook-handled walking stick to rid them of the weight. You'll probably get a load of snow down the back of your neck in the process, but it is better than losing an irreplaceable branch from that specimen blue spruce.

Don't forget to clear the hedge of its load of snow, for I have seen a beautiful hedge, 15 years in the making ruined overnight by the sheer weight of heavy, wet snow on its flat top. This is one reason — not the only one — why hedges should always be trimmed to a wedge shape, narrower at the top and with sloping sides.

The Happy World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Sophia Rumor Confirmed

HOLLYWOOD (NANAJ) — Italian movie actress Sophia Loren is going to have a bambino. Highly reliable sources in Hollywood confirmed that Sophia is pregnant and unable to complete the second of two television specials for David Wolper Productions because "she is feeling rather ill with morning sickness." Sophia completed the first special, The Sophia Loren Story, just this week. She was to have started right away on the second, a musical, at her villa near Rome. Now, the shooting has been postponed indefinitely "because of her condition." She is married to Italian producer Carlo Ponti.

Julie Andrews wants you to know that she did not go to London, as reported, to visit husband Tony Walton from whom she is officially separated. She has been right here in Hollywood, recuperating from the operation on her foot. And rearing for the February start of the Gertrude Lawrence Story, which is titled Star. Once Julie begins this full-length musical directed by Robert Wise, the same wizard of The Sound of Music, West Side Story, and The Sand Pebbles, she will work continuously for 182 days — six solid months. Naturally, she is still glowing at the report that she is the number one movie actress at the box office for the second consecutive year. Her jump to the height of fame and fortune has all been accomplished in two years — from $75,000 for Mary Poppins to $1,000,000 for Star.

It's my hunch that we won't be seeing Angela Lansbury back in Hollywood for at least five years. She signed for two years in Mame, but with the "standing room only" sign up at the theatre since the show started last May, and with Angie enjoying every minute of her smash hit, and her husband living in New York, and the children in New York schools, I am sure she will stay with the show to the end.

Jane Fonda stars for husband Roger Vadim in a film titled Metzengerstein, based on two Edgar Allan Poe short stories. It's been a movie merry-go-round for Jane ever since she made her first movie with Tony Perkins about five years ago... Doris Day's first husband (or was he the second), George Widener is the name, is now married to Marlene Arthur who is toiling with Fabian in Thunder Alley... Bob Hope's son, Tony, who works in the legal department at 20th Century-Fox, spends his free time at the Hollywood Beachcombers with Carole Dudley, daughter of producer Carl Dudley.

More on the $3,000,000 debacle of George Sanders' Cadco Company for the manufacture of plastic and sunglasses in Scotland. In the first place, the company name was used as a joke by Sanders who loved his nickname, The Cad. In the second place when George was asked whether he would ever be returning to Britain to face some of the tangled music, he gave a positive "No." Even if he wanted to, George could not. He is currently rehearsing for the musical stage version of The Man Who Came To Dinner, which at last reports was titled Sherry.

Bob (Gilligan's Island) Deaver's marriage will not last as long as the series. The reconciliation attempt failed... star prices for commercials are going up. Ralph Bellamy will make $100,000 from those vitamins on video... And why doesn't some manufacturer of cosmetics grab Ariane Dahl to sell the product in color on TV? Marriage to Alexis Leliane has made her more beautiful, if that is possible.

More trouble for The Charge of the Light Brigade film. There is an injunction against John Osborne, who wrote the script for Tony Richardson, from lawyers claiming an infringement of copyright on behalf of the authors of The Reason Why.

So What's New?

SYDNEY HARRIS

Cheapest that has a lot of money is "glamorous." Cheapest that doesn't have much money is "sleaziness." I thought of this distinction while reading news reports from Hollywood about teen-agers "taking over" the Sunset Strip, to the consternation of police and community leaders.

One would imagine, from the reports, that the Strip had once been an elegant and sophisticated area, patronized by men and women of taste, breeding and cultivation. In point of fact, it was always honky-tonk — only honky-tonk in a pretentiously expensive way.

I used to spend a month each summer, for many years, staying at the Garden of Allah, a little oasis of civilization on the edge of the Strip. My occasional excursions onto the Strip, usually as a guest of some of the movie people, made me appreciate the Garden even more when I got back.

The affluent adults who, a dozen and more years ago, made the Strip their unhappy hunting-ground were socially, morally and psychologically not a whit superior to the dirty-haired exhibitionistic teen-agers who now jam the sidewalks and cram into the lunch-counters of what used to be sleek, depressing, depraved and lawless night clubs for the flashily prosperous.

A spokesman for the sheriff's office observed that the Strip has "become a gathering ground for runaway girls turned prostitute, homosexuals, petty criminals and addicts." But he failed to add that it had always been pretty much that — except that the people before were older, more successful, and had a lot more money.

Many film "starlets" were runaway girls who began their careers as prostitutes of one kind or another; a discouraging number of screen "heroes" were homosexuals, openly flaunting it at Ciro's or the Trocadero; petty criminals used to get the best tables at such places; and addicts, of course, were in much more common among the upper reaches of Hollywood's thiel society than among the pathetic and pimply-faced teen-agers now pretending to be "hip," or whatever the current in-word happens to be.

The Strip has not changed spiritually. It has only become younger, poorer, and more crowded. The adolescents do not represent a degeneration of this area, but a continuation and an intensification of its own level.

They are following the same idols and mores as their affluent predecessors, and what they are doing there is a melancholy tribute to the twisted ideals of the upper set of Hollywood luminaries.

Indeed, it might be said with truth that the teen-agers are the products of the Sunset Strip syndrome, merely adapting its values to their own limited resources. And isn't this true of all youth everywhere?

Slaughterhouse Certain For Beautiful Champion

LONDON (CP)—The champion heifer voted too beautiful to die by hundreds of British animal-lovers must, it seems, meet her date with the slaughterhouse despite an appeal by a member of Parliament to Agriculture Minister Fred Peart.

A spokesman for the agriculture ministry said Friday the minister has "no power to interfere" with the rules of the Royal Smithfield Fatstock Show, which require the champion steer and champion heifer to be slaughtered within a certain period after purchase in the interests of better beef production.

PRIDE MORETA

The appeal to relieve the heifer, a 20-month-old Aberdeen-Angus named Pride Moreta of Thorn, was made by Dafydd D. Morgan, Labor MP for the Welsh city of Cardiff, after protests showered on Cardiff butcher Jack Evans, who bought Pride Moreta for £1,300 (£3,900) at the Smithfield Christmas show last week.

Evans and Pride Moreta's exhibitor both signed a Smithfield regulation binding the purchaser to have the animal slaughtered by Dec. 28.

But after the heifer was shown parading round the ring on national television, the traditional British outpouring of sympathy for animals in peril began.

Housewives cancelled orders with butcher Evans for Christmas roasts and a petition was signed by 600 citizens of Cardiff. The Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals offered to provide Pride Moreta with "a home for the rest of its natural life."

AUCTION HOPED

Workers in Evans' slaughterhouse refused to kill the animal and Evans himself said he would not order them to do so. He announced earlier this week he would auction the animal for charity if Smithfield released him from his slaughterhouse contract.

Unmoved, Smithfield authorities maintained the rules would not be broken.

G. Yardley, secretary of the Royal Smithfield Club, said: "It was made quite clear by the auctioneers before the sale and as the animals went into the ring that the champion steer and champion heifer must be slaughtered, and both the exhibitor and buyer signed an undertaking to that effect.

"We are only interested in meat animals and this regulation was introduced last year to put a stop to the selling of animals for breeding purposes."

"If the certificate signed by the slaughterer is not in my hands by Dec. 31, the matter will be reported to my council and they will decide what action to take."

Yardley said a similar outcry occurred at last year's show over the champion heifer. The buyer, a butcher from the Berkshire town of Reading, sold the animal back to the exhibitor. The new regulation was introduced to stop such loopholes and ensure the animals are sold for their intended purpose, Yardley said.

The Royal Smithfield show, generally considered the world's premier fatstock show, was first held in 1799.

Thomson Folds Offset Paper Before It Starts

LONDON (CP)—Lord Thomson has abandoned a £32,000,000 (£60,000,000) plan to print two web-offset local evening newspapers at Hemel Hempstead, north of London, it was announced Friday.

An announcement blamed a mounting dispute involving two trade unions and said it would be "inexcusable" to start a new long-term development by employing substantially more men than was necessary.

BIG NEWS

The Canadian-born peer-publisher's decision was big news in London where several national newspapers are having financial difficulties variously attributed to a drop in advertising revenue, union restrictive practices and outmoded management methods.

The monopolies commission now is considering a proposed merger between Thomson's prosperous Sunday Times and the Times, which had hit difficulties in the bitterly competitive quality field.

LABOR-SAYER Sources said Thomson had already spent nearly £1,000,000 on the Hemel Hempstead venture which had been scheduled to produce two papers for the North London Luton-Watford area by the labor-saving web-offset process employed by Thomson earlier in opening a newspaper at Reading, west of London.

The Thomson announcement said that due to the inability of the National Graphical Association and the Society of Graphical and Allied Trades to agree on a "method of realistic manning," the project was abandoned.

NOTICES GIVEN "Notices will be given after Christmas to the staff numbering over 200 already engaged for the project which ultimately would have employed 350. The forced abandonment of the project means that a substantial part of the very considerable investment already committed will be irretrievably lost."

Salmon Fleet Same as 1963 Proposed for Coming Season

BELLINGHAM (AP)—The International Pacific Salmon Fisheries Commission proposed Friday that 1967 regulations be adjusted during the fishing season to allow an escapement of 750,000 sockeye and not fewer than 1,700,000 Fraser River pinks.

It also proposed that the fleet be limited to the size of the one in 1963.

More than 600 U.S. and Canadian fishermen heard the proposed regulations. The commission will meet with its advisory board late in January in New Westminster to draw final regulations.

Other suggested regulations included fishing dates in Canadian convention waters:

'Brazen' Hanoi Raid War Threat—China

By VIRGIL KREY

TOKYO (UPI)—Communist China charged today that U.S. planes "brazenly dive-bombed" its embassy in Hanoi during air raids Wednesday. It called the alleged attack a "threat of war."

Peking radio broadcast the charge by the Chinese foreign ministry. U.S. officials in Saigon and Washington have categorically denied that American planes bombed residential areas of Hanoi last Tuesday and Wednesday.

Communist China's accusation Saturday said the embassy in the North Vietnamese capital was deliberately attacked and seriously damaged in a U.S. raid Wednesday. Peking radio did not mention casualties.

THE BROADCAST The broadcast called the alleged raid a "serious provocation." It was one of the most serious charges leveled against the U.S. since the start of the Vietnam war.

But U.S. Sticks To Denial

"We hereby warn the U.S. government: Your bombing of the Chinese embassy is a mere death-bed struggle and can only further arouse the unbowed indignation of the Chinese people against U.S. imperialism," the broadcast said. "You will certainly receive re-doubled punishment for your crime."

NO COMMENT (Official Washington had no immediate comment on Peking's charges. But state department spokesman Robert McNamara said at a mid-day briefing: "The department of defense has informed us that there is no basis for allegations that U.S. ordinance fell on the city of Hanoi.")

Peking did not spell out any specific threats but the Communists have ordered Communist agents in South Vietnam to initiate retaliatory terror raids in revenge for the alleged bombing of Hanoi residential areas this week.

NO CLOSURE The United States has said the Tuesday-Wednesday raids got no closer than five miles from Hanoi. The Russian news agency Tass reported Thursday American bombs had hit the legation section of Hanoi as well as what it called densely populated working class areas of the capital.

U.S. officials reported the damage inside Hanoi could have been caused by North Vietnamese anti-aircraft shells or surface-to-air missiles which fell back on the city after being fired at the U.S. planes.

MEETINGS Informed sources in Moscow said Friday night public meetings are being held in Soviet schools, offices and factories to protest the alleged U.S. raids inside the Hanoi city limits. The U.S. embassy said it had received no statements of protest from any group.

(The Soviet government Thursday called the alleged raids "the most cynical manifestation of the policy of American imperialism." The official Communist Party newspaper Pravda called them "genocide.")

NEWS OFFICE Peking radio said the offices of the New China News Agency near the embassy were also damaged. The broadcast said: "On the afternoon of Dec. 14 ... large numbers of pirate planes carried out renewed wanton bombing raids on Hanoi."

Black Marketing Under Fire But Not Solved

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN and FRED S. HOFFMAN

SAIGON (AP)—The heat is on river-front theft rings, black marketing and war profiteering in Saigon, but the crime and pilferage of South Vietnam are far from solved.

U.S. and Vietnamese authorities are expanding measures to reduce the drain from these traditional byproducts of war.

In the wake of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's crackdown on embezzlement last month, the richest states offering vintage champagne, transistor radios and U.S. Agency for International Development blankets have vanished from PX Alley, around the corner from the U.S. Embassy.

It is no longer possible to buy openly a jeep clutch assembly or a government-issue air conditioner at the main black market across from 2nd Precinct police headquarters.

Even the Indian money changers have gone underground. But a whispered order to a sidewalk vendor can still produce contraband goods.

In the joint effort to broaden the crackdown: —The U.S. military is posting soldiers to check against theft from warehouses through which U.S. economic aid goods—among the most vulnerable pilferage items—pass into the country. While lacking power to arrest Vietnamese civilians, the soldiers can call in police if they see something out of line.

—The U.S. Agency for International Development is beefing up a staff of customs officers, auditors and intelligence agents and is running the first trials of a computer system which is supposed to take the guesswork out of keeping track of the movement of goods every step of the way from the United States.

Despite the general tightening up, problems of theft and diversion still haunt the country. Rice continued to be a major point of controversy in the corruption problem.

In the last week of November, Australian jungle fighters sweeping through Phuoc Tuy province uncovered a cache of rice similar to the 3,000,000 four of his men Nov. 30 on a bribery charge. The men were accused of accepting 200,000 piastres ($1,700) and 40 cases of American cigarettes to allow a gang to sell 150 names of American soldiers.

Mao Sped, Mouse Paid

1966: An Incredible Year

LONDON (UPI)—A bus conductor who charged a fare for a pet mouse was among those cited Friday in The Weekend Telegraph's tongue-in-cheek "1966 Memory Lane." The American winners included New York Mayor John Lindsay, Alabama governor-elect Mrs. Lurleen Wallace and actor George Hamilton.

Mrs. Wallace was named "Wife of the Year" because she "went out shopping for her husband and procured him Alabama."

Hamilton, Lynda Bird Johnson's boy friend, won "Fan-Club of the Year" honors because he "finally found himself able to join the U.S. army despite having to support his mother."

Lindsay was lauded for the year's "Most Credible Political Promise" for commenting he would "take a close look at the problem when asked by newsmen what he proposed to do about New York's topless waitresses.

The paper's "Sportman of the Year" award went to Mao Tse-tung "for swimming nine miles down the Yangtze River at an almost incredible speed, besides taking a breather to teach a young lady the backstroke."

"Public Servant of the Year" was the London bus conductor "who charged a little girl a sevenpence (9 cents) fare for a pet mouse named George."

Man on $500 Bond For Assaulting Girl

Raymond Hunt, 32, of 311 Maitland, was given a suspended sentence in central magistrate's court Friday. He was earlier convicted of assault.

The accused had jumped out of an alley in the 900 block Parliola and dragged a girl to the ground. After threatening her, he released her unharmed. The offence took place Dec. 1.

TWO YEARS

Magistrate William Ostler told Hunt, "This offence deserves a jail term, for the overriding principle in any sentence is the protection of society." He added, "In this case, jail would worsen the situation." Hunt was placed on a $500 bond for two years with the condition that he get medical help.

Employment as a truck driver saved Ronald Fay West, 19, of 453 Creed, from total loss of his driving licence. He entered a guilty plea to a charge of impaired driving.

POLICE REPORT

The accused was fined $400 and barred from driving for six months except during working hours. A police report said West was found with his car in a ditch near his home on the night of Nov. 16.

A naval rating, Leonard Wahlund, 19, of HMCS Beacon Hill, was fined $35 after pleading guilty to being a minor in possession of liquor.

Police said he was found in the 500 block Johnson with a part bottle of rum.

YEAR ADDED

A convicted narcotics possessor had a year added to his sentence when he pleaded guilty to breaking into two Edmonton business firms a year ago.

The charges against William Joseph Gilmore were transferred from Alberta court to central magistrate's court.

He was convicted of possession of narcotics in Vancouver last summer and sentenced to six months.

CONCURRENT

The two one-year sentences were given concurrently.

Stephanie Lata, 1133 Caledonia, was fined $50 for stealing $15.04 worth of groceries Nov. 24.

She was arrested after leaving a downtown store.

In traffic court Friday the following careless drivers were fined: Robert Anderson, 1846 Oak Bay, $40; Stephen Marty, 510 Gore, $40, and Wayne Morris, of Youbou, $100.

Hit Twice

Motorist Chases, Captures Youth

A persistent motorist who gave chase Thursday to a youth fleeing a car accident was in a second collision after he caught up to the youth.

City police said a car driven by David Johnstone, of 1476 Edgeware Road, was in a collision on Fifth Street with a vehicle driven by a 17-year-old youth.

When the youth sped away from the scene of the accident, Mr. Johnstone gave chase, police said.

After the youth drove his vehicle into a driveway in the 2500 block Graham, Mr. Johnstone blocked the driveway.

But the youth set his car into reverse and backed into the Johnston car.

Police said Mr. Johnstone held the youth at the second crash until they arrived.

Two Island Cows Thrive on Medals

A Vancouver Island Jersey cow, Warwick Dolly's Val, was second in the junior two-year-old class for milk production in November, the Canadian Jersey Cattle Club reported Friday.

The cow, owned by J. A. Wright of Saanichton, produced 10,508 pounds of milk and 497 pounds of fat in 305 days — a silver medal record.

In the senior four-year-old group, a Sardis, B.C., cow, Grasmere Radar Mary, owned by Richard S. McIntyre, set a gold and silver record. She produced 11,778 pounds of milk and 626 pounds of fat in 305 days.

Another Island cow, Handen Farm Lucky's Star, owned by H. Standen of Cowichan Station, was awarded a gold and silver medal in the same class with a milk production of 10,278 pounds and a fat production of 616 pounds in 305 days.

Smasher Site Picked in U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Weston, Ill., has been picked as the site for a $375,000,000 atom smasher, closing a competition that involved dozens of U.S. communities.

The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission said the 300,000,000-electron-volt proton accelerator, projected as the world's most powerful, is designed to unravel many of the mysteries of the structure of

Bunnies Acquire Habit

MOSCOW (Reuters) — A number of Russian rabbits have become compulsive smokers — with encouragement from Soviet scientists. The rabbits were induced to have up to nine cigarettes a day in experiments to discover the effects of smoking on breathing. Tass news agency reported Friday. The rabbits, who smoke their cigarettes through special masks, hated it at first. Once addicted, they became restless when their cigarettes arrived late.

Gilbey's reveal how the first Collins was made

It's entirely possible that the first Collins was made with Gilbey's London Dry.

HOW WAS the first Collins made? It was made by the Headwaiter at a London restaurant. Not surprisingly, his name was Mr. Collins. It's entirely possible that he mixed the drink with Gilbey's London Dry Gin because this gin has been made by the Gilbey family for 109 years. Its perfect balance gives a fresh, clean tasting drink.

Original Tom Collins

My name is Mr. Collins, Headwaiter at Limmers Corner of Conduit Street, Hanover Square

My chief occupation is filling of brimmers

For all the young gentlemen frequenters there.

Tallest of all the "brimmers" made by Mr. Collins was a mixture of gin, lemon juice, sugar and 'charged' water. Today, it is known the world over as the Tom Collins.

Speedy Tom Collins

Today of course you can mix your Collins much more speedily. Where Mr. Collins had to squeeze fresh lemons you can use frozen lemonade. And where Mr. Collins had to crack his ice from the block you can take yours straight from the freezer. But you still begin with Gilbey's London Dry. Its perfect balance gives a fresh, clean tasting drink.

You can rely on Gilbey's London Dry, a perfectly balanced gin that gives you a fresh, clean tasting drink. This gin is an international favourite, sold in 92 countries. It's been made by the Gilbey family for 109 years.

UN Adds Soft Ban on Oil Trade

African Drive Defeated

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The Security Council ordered selective, mandatory sanctions, including oil, against Rhodesia Friday night on the request of Britain.

The amended British resolution was approved by 11 to 0, with four abstentions, in the 15-country council. Abstainers were Russia, France, Bulgaria and Mali.

PUSH FAILED

The three African countries on the council, Mali, Nigeria and Uganda, got oil added to the list of banned commodities, but they failed to push through amendments that would have toughened the resolution even more and specifically obligated the British to stop all oil shipments to Rhodesia.

Mali, therefore, abstained in protest, but Nigeria and Uganda went along with the limited sanctions program.

MANY PRODUCTS

The embargo against the white-minority regime headed by Ian Smith covers Rhodesian oil imports and exports of asbestos, iron ore, chrome, pig iron, sugar, tobacco, copper, meat, meat products, hides, skins and leather. The exports were chosen by the British government in consultation with the Commonwealth sanctions committee in London.

The council approved an African amendment and ordered

Dog Pack Savages Two Girls

CHURCHILL, Man. (CP)—Friday morning's stroll to school was turned into a trip of terror for two Grade 1 girls who were attacked by a pack of stray and sled dogs.

Agnes Spence was later flown to Winnipeg hospital with undetermined injuries but Marlene Dick wasn't seriously hurt. A passerby raced home for his rifle and shot two of the dogs.

Slump Fear Scorned By Business Heads

By JACK FRY
Legislative Reporter

The fear of a recession was cast off Friday by 300 British Columbia businessmen who see continued prosperity ahead in 1967.

The men who have their fingers on the pulse of the economy predicted in a 10-page business outlook another year of continuing prosperity and good times.

The optimistic outlook of the business leaders runs counter to evidence of an economic slowdown in the province.

COULD INHIBIT

Their report, however, warns that continued escalation of costs through higher wages and more expensive materials "could seriously inhibit the continued growth of the economy."

B.C.'s leading businessmen also predict that tight money conditions and accompanying high interest rates which are restricting expansion on all fronts will continue through 1967 and into 1968.

Time Bomb Ticks in China

TOKYO (AP)—Red Flag says opponents in China of Communist Party Chairman Mao Tse-tung and Lin Biao are "time bombs planted within our party" that might explode. It suggests these foes might try to seize power.

For the first time, the Journal of the Chinese party says supporters of this faction "have relative superiority" in the ideological and cultural field.

The targets of the attack appear to be, among others,

President Liu Shao-chi, once Mao's heir-apparent, and Teng Hsiao-ping, party general secretary. Party propaganda chief Tao Chu, in a speech Tuesday, accused both men of following a "bourgeois reactionary line."

It appears from Red Flag's editorial that Liu and Teng are backed by many intellectuals, writers, artists, professors and students in the fight against the rigid doctrines of Mao and Defence Minister Lin, now heir-apparent to Mao's mantle.

In the editorial broadcast by Radio Peking, Red Flag appeals to the Chinese people to rise against the Liu-Teng faction.

The reference to time bombs and the apparent fear that the foes of Mao and Lin might try to seize power comes after Red Flag says the main targets of the current purge "are the handful of people within the party who are in authority and are taking the capitalist road."

The Hanoi Raid-Non-Raid: Information Muddle

Credibility Gap Yawns Wider

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The storm over alleged U.S. bombing of Hanoi left new scars Friday on the U.S. government's credibility and a residue of bitterness between the state and defence departments.

For two days the state department held the position of public spokesman for the U.S. government. It reflected massive confusion over the geography of the North Vietnamese capital and answered questions about whether the city had been bombed with policy statements that it was not supposed to be bombed.

(See Pages 8 and 35)

Inside the government it was recognized that the state department was trying to fend off Communist charges, non-

Communist criticism and public demands for information until the military leaders in Saigon could figure out from pilot reports and photographs what had actually happened.

When results of the Saigon investigation had reached the point of disclosure Thursday night, the state department was suddenly bypassed.

Even when word began to be available elsewhere in Washington that officials claimed evidence that the city of Hanoi, as narrowly defined, had not been hit, state

Clemency Word Monday

OTTAWA (CP)—Solicitor-General Pennell said Friday he hopes to be able to announce Monday whether the government will grant pre-Christmas clemency to a group of British Columbia labor leaders in jail for defying a court injunction.

PAY OFFER ERASES AIR STRIKE THREAT

OTTAWA (CP)—A threatened strike of air traffic controllers next Tuesday was called off late Friday after negotiators accepted a government wage offer.

Revenue Minister Benson said the settlement involves a wage increase of "about 13 per cent."

John D:

Pension Snoops Certain

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said Friday night federal "mass snoopers" will declare open season on any pensioner who applies for a proposed $30 supplement.

The statement came during an attack on a government bill that provides for a check on the income of those who apply for a guaranteed income supplement.

Colin Cameron (NDP—Nanaimo-Cowichan—The Islands) said the bill will allow bureaucrats to look into the savings, home ownership and financial status of relatives of those who apply for the supplement.

NO LIMIT

"There is no limit to the snooping."

Opposition parties promised an all-out attack on this feature of the legislation, which will come up again for clause-by-clause study Monday.

Transport Minister Pickersgill called the Diefenbaker remarks "a gross distortion." The opposition was shedding crocodile

The settlement came less than two hours before the Commons was scheduled to launch an emergency overtime sitting to handle government legislation that would have outlawed the strike.

J. D. Lyon of Winnipeg, president of the Canadian Air Traffic Controllers Association, emerged from a two-hour negotiating session and reported that his group had decided to accept a government settlement formula.

THREATENED TRAFFIC

The strike would have halted all commercial airline operations, domestic and foreign, in Canada at the peak of the Christmas rush.

Mr. Benson, his voice choked with emotion, announced in the Commons a few minutes later that the strike was off.

The maximum for the 800 operating controllers would be about $10,800. The maximum formerly was $9,328.

INTERIM MEASURE

Mr. Benson said the increase will be retroactive to July 1 and the agreement would run to next June 30, when the federal civil service is to obtain legal collective bargaining rights for the first time.

There also had been agreement to award a three-per-cent wage increase next July 1 as an interim measure prior to the completion of collective bargaining later in the year.

The controllers, who handle all radar and radio traffic at airports, called the strike to back demands for government adoption of wage recommendations made in November by Judge J. B. Robinson after a five-month study of the dispute.

DID MORE THAN ASKED

The government said the judge had exceeded his terms of reference by recommending a wage formula.

Mr. Benson said the increase accepted by the association was mainly designed to compensate the control tower crews for the stress involved in their work. This had increased sharply in recent years due to heavier air traffic and larger planes.

'Think It Over'

CBC Asks To Copy Bug Tapes

VANCOUVER (CP)—Commissioner R. A. Sargent said Friday the CBC has asked to tape controversial tapes at an inquiry investigating electronic bugging of a union convention.

Mr. Sargent mentioned the request before adjourning the commission until Jan. 3.

The commissioner said he was inclined to favor the idea, but it brought an uproar of protest from counsel. He repeated that he favored the plan and asked them to think it over during the Christmas-New Year's recess.

He said the CBC had asked to bring its own tape recordings into the hearings when the six tapes of bugged conversations are played when the hearing resumes.

Earlier, Mr. Sargent said the tapes would be heard and RCMP witnesses called when the commission resumed.

The tapes are from electronic listening devices placed at the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada convention in a downtown hotel.

The commissioner said he wanted to devote a full day to the tapes, which will take about five hours to hear.

Cpl. Harry Reed and Constable E. P. Ouellette of the RCMP security and intelligence branch will be the first witnesses when hearings resume, Mr. Sargent said.

The men were implicated in the bugging by Bud Graham, a private detective who testified he was hired to listen in on the pulp union meeting.

Graham told the commission earlier he thought he was doing the job as a matter of national security.

Rights for Man Ratified at Last

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—The General Assembly, in an action hailed by delegates as historic, unanimously adopted Friday two covenants aimed at extending basic human rights to all mankind.

The covenants had been in preparation for 20 years. One deals with civil and political rights and the other with economic, social and cultural rights.

They will come into force

when they have been ratified by 35 nations and will then give binding, legal recognition to a vast array of individual rights that previously had been set forth only in vague and general terms.

Secretary-General U Thant, addressing the assembly after adoption of the covenants, said: "It is my sincere belief that our decision today will bring us nearer to the kind of world which our organization is committed to build."

Joint Water Board Next?

By KLAUS MUENTER

NORTH COWICHAN—Good well water will be brought to 530 additional homes in the southern portion of the North Cowichan municipality by July 1.

This is the plan following an election where Maple Bay residents voted 72 per cent in favor of a $515,000 water bylaw.

They had defeated the bylaw by three votes a few weeks earlier.

Two other areas included in the same water district had approved it.

Reeve Morton said "the new municipal water system should do much to encourage a joint water board with the city of Duncan."

The number of homes which

North Cowichan Looks to Future will get the water next summer are 160 at Maple Bay, 60 along Maple Bay Road and 300 in the remaining part of the new water district.

North Cowichan Reeve Donald Morton said that in the early part of next year tenders will be called, and it is hoped construction on the water supply system will start in the spring of 1967.

Involved in the water line installation are about 85,000 feet, or approximately 17 miles of pipes.

The reeve said "perhaps now people will realize the size of this undertaking."

He said the 85,000 feet of piping does not include the existing pipelines.

A well was drilled and developed in the York Road area almost a year ago, and tests conducted gave consulting engineer Howard Starrock the basis for this statement the well would deliver 600 gallons of good, clean water every minute.

The health inspector a few weeks ago said at a public meeting at Maple Bay the chance of contamination was so remote it was not even worth considering.

Reeve Morton said "We have made provision for chlorination, although it is very unlikely its use will ever become necessary."

The reeve said the feasibility of a new water system in the southern portion of the municipality was explored after the receipt of petitions from taxpayers in the Somers VLA subdivision and Maple Bay who desired improvement of the quality of their water and water pressure in existing systems.

He said how all these areas are combined.

More than a year ago two water bylaws were defeated in the Somers area, but at that time the water was supposed to be bought in bulk from the city of Duncan and the monthly cost to the individual consumer would have been $9.50.

Now the monthly consumer cost will be $3.70 plus a capital cost of $15 per lot per year.

The reeve said "the capital cost is expected to be reduced as soon as more building lots become available."

UN Peacekeeping Vote Today

Russia Bucks Canada's Plan

By ALEXANDER FARRELL

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Russia warned Friday that if the General Assembly accepts Canada's peacekeeping proposals, a situation "latent with serious consequences" will be created.

The assembly is to vote, possibly today, on a Canadian draft resolution that would invite the UN member countries to designate armed forces and facilities for peacekeeping duties and would ask the Security Council to take practical steps to make peacekeeping operations more effective.

The basic Canadian purpose is to ensure that the UN always is ready for whatever peacekeeping operations it may decide to undertake.

The Canadian motion was passed by the assembly's special political committee Wednesday night 52 to 14, with 42 abstentions. For assembly passage, it will need approval by two-thirds of all countries voting.

The Soviet position is that the Canadian proposals are beyond the competence of the 12-member General Assembly. Russia and France argue that all decisions relating to peacekeeping are the prerogative of the 15-member Security Council.

The Soviet Union mission issued a statement Friday saying that Canada and its supporters are trying "to push through a decision running counter to the UN Charter, despite resolute protests of the Soviet Union and France, both permanent Security Council members which carry responsibility for the maintenance of international peace and security, as well as of a number of other member states of the organization."

"No one has the right to alter the provisions of the United Nations Charter concerning the use of armed forces to maintain peace."

"That is why the decision taken by the special political committee on Dec. 14 has no power and can have none. The Soviet Union will never recognize as legal any such decisions conflicting with the key provision of the charter of our organization."

WILL WIN

A Canadian spokesman told reporters he is mystified as to what provisions of the Canadian motion the Russians find unconstitutional. Neither in the committee debate nor in their statement Friday had they spelled out their objection.

Despite Soviet and French opposition, the feeling among diplomats Friday appeared to be that the Canadian motion will win the required two-thirds majority. If it does, its immediate effect will be to keep the whole question of peacekeeping on the assembly's agenda and to bring it before the Security Council, which Canada joins Jan. 1 for a two-year term.

The practical steps asked of the council are that it:

- Authorize a study of ways to improve preparations for peacekeeping operations, so that UN peace forces won't have to be improvised at the last minute, as in the past.
- Get a cost-estimate from the secretary-general whenever it sets up a peace force so that, contrary to what has happened in the past, member countries will know at the outset what the annual expenditure is likely to be.
- Consider making agreements with member countries for provisions of armed forces and facilities on request.

The council would be asked to report to the autumn, 1967, session of the assembly on what it has done in response to this motion.

NATO Ministers Plan Organizational Study

PARIS (CP)—North Atlantic ministers, completing their Paris deliberations Friday, agreed to launch an intensive study of how NATO should be shaped to meet future needs, especially in the light of warmer relations with Russia and Eastern Europe.

They placed so much emphasis on improving East-West relations that External Affairs Minister Paul Martin later observed that more importance had been placed on the defense than at any other meeting he had attended.

He was particularly enthusiastic that the ministers agreed to keep progress on an East-West nuclear non-proliferation agreement under review and "to seek agreement on satisfactory arms control measures which might contribute to the improvement of European security and the relaxation of tension."

Of specific Canadian interest, on a point which Martin has been pushing, was the ministers' formal expression of hope "to bring about conditions which could permit a gradual and balanced revision in force levels on both sides."

NATO GOAL

Martin had called for such a NATO goal in connection with Western and Soviet forces in West and East Germany. He has not been the first to do so, but his emphasis was reflected in the NATO communique.

In the same way Canada won a point with the NATO agreement to launch an intensive study of the status of the alliance, a proposal made by Belgium. But the communique noted that Canada had taken the initiative two years ago.

A preliminary report on the tasks that face the alliance and ways of meeting these tasks is to be ready for the NATO spring meeting at Luxembourg, with a final report to be considered at the December meeting next year.

NUCLEAR SPREAD

The ministers reached a number of other decisions, such as construction of a temporary prefabricated new council headquarters at Evere, near Brussels, and a permanent building at Heysel in Brussels. It didn't say when the existing council in Paris is to be transferred,

Clashes Yield Arms Cache

LISBON (AP)—A Portuguese army communique reports that great quantities of Chinese and Soviet-made armaments were captured during heavy fighting with nationalist rebels in Mozambique this month. The communique said the rebels suffered 200 casualties in the fighting. It said five government soldiers were killed.

Electricity Kills Two Brothers

DIVIDING CREEK, N.J. (AP)—Two brothers have been electrocuted while attempting to put up a television antenna. Louis Otero, 41, was 14 feet up a tree, working on the 30-foot antenna. He slipped and the antenna touched a high tension line. His brother Angelo, 37, was on the ground, holding the other end of the antenna.

Safety Rules The End For AMC?

DETROIT (UPI)—American Motors Corp., smallest of the major U.S. automobile makers, said Friday that proposed government safety standards might drive it out of business.

American Motors president Roy Abernathy accused the government of discriminating against his firm in favor of the "Big Three" auto companies—General Motors, Ford and Chrysler.

"The procedure now specified is a crippling blow to the economic viability of this moderate-sized company and results in a de facto discrimination in favor of the economic giants of the industry," Abernathy said.

France Denies Tobacco Deal

PARIS (UPI)—The French state tobacco monopoly has denied it agreed to exchange cotton goods for $5,600,000 worth of Rhodesian tobacco. It said no tobacco has been purchased directly or indirectly since Rhodesia's declaration of independence from Britain.

Security Council: 11 Yes, Four Silent

UN Adds Soft Ban on Oil Trade

African Drive Defeated

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The Security Council ordered selective, mandatory sanctions, including oil, against Rhodesia Friday night on the request of Britain.

The amended British resolution was approved by 11 to 0, with four abstentions, in the 15-country council. Abstainers were Russia, France, Bulgaria and Mali.

PUSH FAILED

The three African countries on the council, Mali, Nigeria and Uganda, got oil added to the list of banned commodities, but they failed to push through amendments that would have toughened the resolution even more and specifically obligated the British to stop all oil shipments to Rhodesia.

Mali, therefore, abstained in protest, but Nigeria and Uganda went along with the limited sanctions program.

MANY PRODUCTS

The embargo against the white-minority regime headed by Ian Smith covers Rhodesian oil imports and exports of asbestos, iron ore, chrome, pig iron, sugar, tobacco, copper, meat, meat products, hides, skins and leather. The exports were chosen by the British government in consultation with the Commonwealth sanctions committee in London.

The council approved an African amendment and ordered

Dog Pack Savages Two Girls

CHURCHILL, Man. (CP)—Friday morning's stroll to school was turned into a trip of terror for two Grade 1 girls who were attacked by a pack of stray and sled dogs.

Agnes Spence was later flown to Winnipeg hospital with undetermined injuries but Marlene Dick wasn't seriously hurt. A passerby raced home for his rifle and shot two of the dogs.

Their Hero Wore Hip-Waders

carried to canoe, which transported family to waiting rescue trucks. Cowichan River continued to pose threat to families in Mission Road area. (Story on Page 5.)

Slump Fear Scorned By Business Heads

By JACK FRY
Legislative Reporter

The fear of a recession was cast off Friday by 300 British Columbia businessmen who continued prosperity ahead in 1967. The men who have their fingers on the pulse of the economy predicted in a 10-page business outlook another year of continuing prosperity and good times. The optimistic outlook of the business leaders runs counter to evidence of an economic slowdown in the province.

Intellectuals On Spot

Time Bomb Ticks in China

TOKYO (AP)—Red Flag says opponents in China of Communist Party Chairman Mao Tse-tung and Lin Biao are "time bombs" planted within our party that might explode. It suggests these foes might try to seize power.

For the first time, the journal of the Chinese party says supporters of this faction "have relative superiority" in the ideological and cultural field.

The targets of the attack appear to be, among others,

President Liu Shao-chi, once Mao's heir-apparent, and Teng Hsiao-ping, party general secretary. Party propaganda chief Tao Chu, in a speech Tuesday, accused both men of following a "bourgeois reactionary line."

It appears from Red Flag's editorial that Liu and Teng are backed by many intellectuals, writers, artists, professors and students in the fight against the rigid doctrines of Mao and Defence Minister Lin, now heir-apparent to Mao's mantle.

In the editorial broadcast by Radio Peking, Red Flag appeals to the Chinese people to rise against the Liu-Teng faction.

The reference to time bombs and the apparent fear that the foes of Mao and Lin might try to seize power comes after Red Flag says the main targets of the current purge "are the handful of people within the party who are in authority and are taking the capitalist road."

Views of 300 executives in industry, trade, utilities and service were canvassed and compiled by Jack Meredith, assistant director, and Ron Knight, research supervisor, of the B.C. Bureau of Economics and Statistics.

The Hanoi Raid-Non-Raid: Information Muddle

Credibility Gap Yawns Wider

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The storm over alleged U.S. bombing of Hanoi left new scars Friday on the U.S. government's credibility and a residue of bitterness between the state and defence departments. For two days the state department held the position of public spokesman for the U.S. government. It reflected massive confusion over the geography of the North Vietnamese capital and answered questions about whether the city had been bombed with policy statements that it was not supposed to be bombed. (See Pages 2 and 35)

Inside the government it was recognized that the state department was trying to fend off Communist charges, non-night, the state department was suddenly bypassed. Even when word began to be available elsewhere in Washington that officials claimed evidence that the city of Hanoi, as narrowly defined, had not been hit, state

Pension Snoops Certain

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition leader Diefenbaker said Friday night federal "mass snoopers" will declare open season on any pensioner who applies for a proposed $30 supplement.

The statement came during an attack on a government bill that provides for a check on the income of those who apply for a guaranteed income supplement. Colin Cameron (NDP—Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands) said the bill will allow bureaucrats to look into the savings, home ownership and financial status of relatives of those who apply for the supplement.

"NO LIMIT" There is no limit to the snooping. Opposition parties promised an all-out attack on this feature of the legislation, which will come up again for clause-by-clause study Monday. Transport Minister Pickersgill called the Diefenbaker remarks "a gross distortion." The opposition was shedding crocodile

'Think It Over'

CBC Asks To Copy Bug Tapes

VANCOUVER (CP)—Commissioner R. A. Sargent said Friday the CBC has asked to tape controversial tapes at an inquiry investigating electronic bugging of a union convention.

Mr. Sargent mentioned the request before adjourning the commission until Jan. 3.

The commissioner said he was inclined to favor the idea, but it brought an uproar of protest from counsel. He repeated that he favored the plan and asked them to think it over during the Christmas-New Year recess.

He said the CBC had asked to bring its own tape recordings into the hearings when the six tapes of bugged conversations are played when the hearing resumes. Earlier, Mr. Sargent said the tapes would be heard and

RCMP witnesses called when the commission resumed. The tapes are from electronic listening devices placed at the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada convention in a downtown hotel. The commissioner said he wanted to devote a full day to the tapes, which will take about five hours to hear. Cpl. Harry Reed and Constable E. P. Ouellette of the RCMP security and intelligence branch will be the first witnesses when hearings resume, Mr. Sargent said.

Rights for Man Ratified at Last

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—The General Assembly, in an action hailed by delegates as historic, unanimously adopted Friday two covenants aimed at extending basic human rights to all mankind.

The covenants had been in preparation for 20 years. One deals with civil and political rights and the other with economic, social and cultural rights.

They will come into force

when they have been ratified by 35 nations and will then give binding, legal recognition to a vast array of individual rights that previously had been set forth only in vague and general terms. Secretary-General U Thant, addressing the assembly after adoption of the covenants, said: "It is my sincere belief that our decision today will bring us nearer to the kind of world which our organization is committed to build."

Fund Leaps $1,000

Fantastic Describes Friday

FANTASTIC!

That's the only way to describe the record-smashing day the Colonist 500 Fund had Friday.

Three important barriers were not only overcome, but soundly beaten:

- The fund passed the $10,000 mark — easily.
- The fund had its first $1,000 day (and more) of this year's campaign.
- Lagging well behind last year's same-day totals, the fund
